This book is dedicated to the process of awakening, to the explorations which require us to become more than we know ourselves to be.

Acknowledgements

This book would never have made it to press if not for the tireless efforts of my dear friend and long-time colleague Kelly McCathran. Her eagle eyes and relentless attention to detail as tech editor for the book have made it a far better product than it would otherwise have been. Kelly, the depth of your commitment, particularly in the face of the extreme demands of motherhood and career, was nothing short of super-human. I can't thank you enough for your friendship, your dedication and your expertise.

When I agreed to write this book, I had no idea what I was in for. At risk of being melodramatic, it's been a journey of the soul. My profoundly dear friend Jacqui Neulinger, who knows me better than anyone else in the world, was a constant beacon, lighting passage for me through sometimes turbulent waters. Jacqui, I am grateful beyond words for your love and wisdom, and for making me see myself and my capabilities through your eyes.

Every athlete needs a coach. Writing this book was the closest thing to running a marathon that I ever expect do, but I couldn't have crossed the finish line without the support of my dear friend and life coach, Dianne Savoie. Dianne, when I lost sight of the light at the end of the tunnel, you showed up with flares to light the way. I am endlessly grateful for your deep commitment, your love, and your tireless reminders to "Get up and dance!"

My parents Lee Rubin and Diane Sovel, both provided support without which the book would have remained no more than a unfulfilled dream. I thank you both from the depths of my heart for making it possible for me to pursue that dream.

Although I've always had visions of being a writer, it was my work writing for Adobe over the last five years that enabled me to take ownership of that vision. Special thanks go to Sally Cox for recommending me, and to Karen LeFever, Lorse Koo, Janice Lalley, Eric Sahlin, Jason Guerra, Maryann Amado, Bob Bringham, Kristine Jensen, Laura Kersell, Jim Ringham, and Alan Mussleman for the opportunity and support you've provided. It's thanks to our business relationship that I was invited to attend a demo days event that inspired the idea for this book in the first place.

A special thanks goes to Sandee Cohen for the inspiration to take my idea for this book and run with it. Sandee, your enthusiasm for the idea was the reassurance I needed to get the ball rolling. I can't thank you enough.

No technically-oriented book gets written without the help of experts. I want to express my deep appreciation to Chris Kitchener, Lorse Koo, David Helmly, Kelly McCathran all of whom extended themselves in trouble-shooting, problem-solving, and fact-checking. I thank you also on behalf of the readers for making the book a more reliable resource.

Of course, if it weren't for Adobe and all the people behind the extraordinary Adobe applications, there wouldn't have been anything to write about. I am tremendously grateful for the creative power you make available through your products and for the worlds of opportunity they've inspired.
