A Field-Centred Approach to Gestalt Therapy
Agency and Response-ability in a Changing World
Lothar Gutjahr
Series: Gestalt Therapy Book Series
In Gestalt therapy, sociological, political, and economic research is often neglected or ignored. Drawing on analyses about current societal conditions, this book considers that there is no such thing as a ‘postmodern’ therapy and offers a new approach to Gestalt therapy. This important new book is at the cutting edge of the current discussion of relational and field-oriented approaches to Gestalt therapy, and will be of particular interest to practitioners of Gestalt therapy, psychotherapists, phenomenologists, as well as theorists of philosophy, sociology and therapy.

A Life of One’s Own
Marion Milner
Series: Routledge Classics
In A Life of One’s Own Marion Milner, a renowned British psychoanalyst, artist and autobiographer takes us on an extraordinary seven-year inward journey to discover what it is that makes her happy. On its first publication, W. H. Auden found the book “as exciting as a detective story” and, as Milner searches out clues, the reader quickly becomes involved in the chase. Anticipating the contemporary phenomenon of mindfulness, A Life of One’s Own is a great adventure in thinking and living whose insights remain as fresh today as they were on the book’s first publication in the 1930s. This Routledge Classics edition includes a revised Introduction by Rachel Bowlby.

A Step-by-Step Guide to Socio-Emotional Relationship Therapy
A Socially Responsible Approach to Clinical Practice
Carmen Knudson-Martin
Writing to the practicing clinician, this book offers a step-by-step practical guide to Socio-Emotional Relationship Therapy (SERT) when working with individuals, couples, and families. This practical guide is essential reading for all mental health professionals, such as seasoned family therapists, counselors, psychologists, social workers, and students in training in these fields.
ACT at the End
Acceptance and Commitment Therapy with People at the End of Life

Toni Lindsay
ACT at the End is based on the principles of Acceptance and Commitment Therapy (ACT), and while it has a grounding in research, it is also a hands-on clinical guide for those working with people at a tricky and complex time of life. This book provides examples that clinicians will be able to apply to their own practices and tools that they can use to troubleshoot clinical concerns. It’s a helpful companion to clinicians navigating challenging terrain—much in the way that someone might turn to a colleague for advice, it is open and accessible, while still recognizing the ways in which that the work is hard.

Body Words and the Analyst’s Use of Self

Transforming the Unspeakable in Clinical Process

Barbara Pizer

Series: Psychoanalysis in a New Key

In this book, it becomes impossible to stand apart from the analytic field as abstract concepts, such as dissociation, intersubjectivity, and unconscious communication, as well as newly coined ones, like “Relational (K)not” and “Body Words,” come alive through a vivid unfolding of analytic process. Body Words and the Analyst’s Use of Self is a rare window that allows readers—new and seasoned clinicians of various theoretical persuasions—to become intimate witnesses to the analyst’s subjectivity and the creativity of the analytic partnership.

Developmental Ruptures
The psychoanalysis of breakdown and defensive solutions
Anna Maria Nicolò

Series: New Library of Psychoanalysis

This book questions the diagnostic categories applied to adolescents from a developmental viewpoint putting forth an alternative perspective for assessment that considers prognostic and risk indicators. Going beyond the classification of adult psychopathology, Anna Maria Nicolò presents a multidimensional approach to the adolescent mind that explores its complexities through a clinical lens and accompanying theoretical prism. Developmental Ruptures will appeal to psychoanalysts, psychiatrists, and developmental psychologists, as well as to people working with psychotic onset and crises emerging particularly at the outset of puberty or young adulthood.

Essays on “The Soul’s Logical Life” in the Work of Wolfgang Giegerich
Psychology as the Discipline of Interiority

Edited by Jennifer M Sandoval, Colleen EL-Bejjani, Pamela J Power
Essays on “The Soul’s Logical Life” in the Work of Wolfgang Giegerich: Psychology as the Discipline of Interiority is the second collection of essays dedicated to the study and application of Psychology as the Discipline of Interiority at a new “wave” within Analytical Psychology which pushes off from the work of C. G. Jung and James Hillman. Essential reading for depth and clinical psychologists, Jungian psychoanalysts, and academics and students of post-Jungian studies, and for all those interested in what it means to think in the highly sophisticated and technological world of the twenty-first century.

Essentials of Compassion Focused Therapy
A Practice Manual for Clinicians

Nicola Petrocchi, James Kirby, Beatrice Baldi
This book presents a comprehensive, 12-module transdiagnostic program to deliver Compassion Focused Therapy (CFT) in group and individual settings. Offering an accessible step-by-step guide to the essentials of CFT and its application to a range of contexts, this book provides clinicians with clear guidelines to deliver the modules. This practice guide will be the authoritative resource in CFT for clinicians, trainers, supervisors, researchers, and clients with previous CFT experience who wish to deepen their practice.

Exploring Lacan’s Encore Seminar XX
The Torus of Reason

Raul Moncayo, Barri Belnap, Greg Farr
Studying Lacan’s Encore Seminar XX explores the themes presented in Encore, the seminar presented by Lacan between 1972 and 1975. The authors focus on Lacan’s presentation of the theory of the Third Jouissance, clarifying the difference between jouissance as a concept and as a word. Studying Lacan’s Encore Seminar XX will be essential reading for academics and scholars of Lacanian studies, Lacanian analysts and readers interested in Lacan’s theories of the 1970s.
Family-Based Treatment for Eating Disorders Piece by Piece

A Practical Guide for Parents

James Lock, Aileen Whyte, Brittany Matheson, Nandini Datta

The book illustrates how parents who are participating in family-based treatment (FBT) for their child’s eating disorder (ED) may enhance their chances of achieving optimal outcomes for their child by more successfully navigating the challenges that often impede progress in treatment and recovery. A respectful and supportive tone makes this resource accessible and jargon-free for parents, and provides useful information and approaches for psychologists, psychiatrists, social workers, and allied health practitioners who deliver FBT to young people and families.

Kohut's Self Psychology for a Fractured World
New Ways of Understanding the Self and Human Community
John Hanwell Riker
Series: New Directions in Self Psychology
Drawing from Kohut's conceptualisation of self, Riker sets out how contemporary America's formulation of persons as autonomous, self-sufficient individuals is deeply injurious to the development of a vitalizing self-structure—a condition which lies behind much of the mental illness and social malaise of today's world. Informed by self psychology and philosophy, this book is essential reading for psychoanalysts, psychotherapists and philosophers, seeking to revisit and revise constructions of both self and humanity.

Mentalizing the Body
Integrating Body and Mind in Psychotherapy
Ulrich Schultz-Venrath
Mentalizing the Body brings together theory and practice with the latest neurobiological and developmental psychological findings to understand the relevance of the body in a wide range of mental disorders, especially personality and somatization disorders. This book will be of great interest to practitioners and researchers – from psychoanalysts and psychotherapists to psychiatrists and psychologists seeking to understand the mentalization model, and all healthcare professionals working with severe mental disorders.

LGBTQ+ Intimate Partner Violence
A Guide for Mental Health Practitioners

Meaningless Suffering
Traumatic Marginalisation and Ethical Responsibility
Edited by David Goodman, M. Mookie C. Manalili
Series: Psychology and the Other
Does suffering have meaning? The leading scholars and practitioners in Meaningless Suffering engage with this haunting human question through the lenses of psychoanalytic, phenomenological and ethical discourse, all the while holding contemporary social concerns in full view. This book is essential reading for postgraduate students, scholars, and practitioners working at the intersection of psychoanalysis, race, politics, and culture, as well as students of cultural studies, the humanities, politics, psychology, psychosocial studies, sociology, and social work.

Music in Arts-Based Research and Depth Psychology
Listening for Shadow as Inclusive Inquiry
Shara Brun
Series: Explorations in Mental Health
This book addresses an existing gap in academic arts-based research whereby, rather than exploring music as an effective therapeutic intervention, it is explored as the central medium or tool of inquiry. Offering a clear and well-presented example for integrating music and sound into processes of in-depth psychological inquiry, and addressing the impact of colonization upon embodied knowledge in music and academic research, it will appeal to scholars and researchers working at the intersection of psychology, music studies, education, social justice and research methods.

Psychoanalytic and Spiritual Perspectives on Terrorism
Desire for Destruction

Nina E. Cerfolio

Nina E. Cerfolio masterfully explores the deeper spiritual and psychoanalytic understanding of the origins of human aggressive and destructive instincts which underlie mass shootings and terrorism. Championing the forgotten collective humiliation of the marginalized—which in turn breeds terrorism—and documenting a new spiritual lens through which healing is possible, this book will be essential reading for mental health workers and anyone wishing to understand the traumatizing epoch in which we are living.

Psychoanalytically Informed Play Therapy
Fantasy-Exposure Life-Narrative Therapy
Jason L. Steadman
This book is a structured manual for the execution of FELT, an integrative play therapy that marries the analytic, relational, and psychodynamic aspects of traditional Play Therapy with the scientific rigor and replicability standards of clinical empiricism. Including comprehensive theoretical underpinnings and thorough clinical examples of FELT at work, this volume will allow therapists, clinicians and mental health workers to understand childhood play in an empirically-based manner and show them how to integrate the key tenets of FELT into their own work to better aid children experiencing anxiety and other mental health concerns.

Rethinking Autism with Dolto
Syllable Soup
Kathleen Saint-Onge
Rethinking Autism with Dolto takes up a principal legacy of Françoise Dolto’s immense project—her conviction that autism is a regression to the archaic. Rethinking Autism with Dolto considers unconscious processes as inherently reparative, heralding the responsibility education holds for human health, and supports a rethinking of autism that presumes competence. Readers are invited to new conversations in psychoanalysis, child development, education and linguistics through an exploitation of the unconscious concomitants of first language acquisition.

The Challenges of Integrating Religion and Spirituality into Psychotherapy
Integrity, Competence, and Cultural Pluralism in Clinical Practice

Francis A. Martin

Series: Advances in Mental Health Research

This book examines personal and professional understandings of religion in psychotherapy and advocates for integrity, competence, and cultural pluralism in clinical practice. In the context of these questions and discussion of contentious challenges, this book provides guidelines for relating religion with clinical practice and recommends needed actions by clinical preparation programs, professional associations, individual therapists, state legislatures, licensing boards, social service agencies, and corporations. All of this stands on the conspicuous need for professional accountability in the delivery of mental health care.

The Disabled Will
A Theory of Addiction

John T. Maier

This book defends a comprehensive new vision of what addiction is and how people with addictions should be treated. The author argues that, in addition to physical and intellectual disabilities, there are volitional disabilities – disabilities of the will – and that addiction is best understood as a species of volitional disability. This text marks a significant advance in the theory of addiction, one which should reshape our understanding of addiction policy and its proper aims.

Unlocking the Emotional Brain
Memory Reconsolidation and the Psychotherapy of Transformational Change
Bruce Ecker, Robin Ticic, Laurel Hulley
Unlocking the Emotional Brain maps out a core process of profound unlearning, identified in neuroscience research on memory reconsolidation, that is embedded and detectable in psychotherapies that yield transformational change. This volume delivers a remarkable unification of the panoply of therapy systems. Two dozen detailed case examples show the versatility and remarkable effectiveness of the memory reconsolidation process for a vast range of severe, longstanding problems and symptoms, including complex trauma, depression, panic attacks, shame, insecure attachment, compulsive behaviors, and many others.

Crime, Punishment, and the Elderly

Japan and Beyond

Edited by Yoko Hosoi, Bunri Tatsuno, John Pratt
Series: Routledge Studies in Asian Behavioural Sciences

Japan’s aging population is a commonly known issue globally, and the world looks to Japan to understand the issues that other nations may experience in the future. One such aspect is an increase in crimes committed by the elderly. According to the National Police Agency in Japan, the proportion of elders arrested for committing theft has doubled over the past 10 years. The chapters in this volume look to answer questions around the reason for elder crime, the types of crime and punishment that exists in this cohort of society and how this increasingly large problem in society can be managed.

Martial Culture in the Lifeways of US Servicemembers and Veterans
Military Psychology, Ancient Mythology, and Re-Souling Service

Nathan J. Hogan
Series: Routledge Studies in Leadership, Work and Organizational Psychology
This book develops a new concept – “martial culture” – with which to problematize and reframe thinking surrounding the lifeways of US servicemembers, following the values, beliefs, norms, and rituals they are exposed to upon entering military service. It will be of interest to psychologists who seek to develop their treatment of veterans by understanding the unique lifeway of service without judgement and offering a balanced, integrated spiritual connection, while pushing back against both inaccurate assumptions of martial lifeways and the influences of industrialized secular approaches to service. It will also appeal to those within the fields of military sociology and psychology.

Researching Child-Dog Relationships in the Classroom

Rhythms of Posthuman Childhoods

Cover Image

Donna Carlyle
Series: Explorations in Developmental Psychology

This interdisciplinary book explores posthuman and psychological approaches to childhood education and wellbeing by examining ‘animal-assisted’ education, using qualitative approaches to understand the nuanced mechanisms which unfold in child-dog interactions. Using creative methods as well as spatial, sensory and movement theory, this book will appeal to scholars, researchers and academics in the fields of cognitive psychology, child and adolescent psychiatry, and primary and elementary education. Those interested in the early years will also benefit from this volume.

Resistance & Recovery in the #MeToo era, Volume I

Edited by Kate Richmond, Nicole L. Johnson

This book amplifies the voices of those who were and continue to be at the frontlines resisting and responding to sexual violence during the rise of digital feminist movements, including #NoMore, #TimesUp, and most notably #MeToo. The first of the two volumes include 10 chapters that provide a critique of the silencing of survivors who are marginalized within the current movements and offer recommendations for how to center their experiences through an intersectional approach. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Women & Therapy.

The Mental Health of Gifted Intelligent Machines
AI and the Mirror of Human Psychology

John Senior, Éva Gyarmathy

The Mental Health of Gifted Intelligent Machines explores the increasingly sophisticated behaviours of developing AI and how we can ensure it will have emotional resilience, ethical strength, and an ability to think in a new and enhanced way. It asks questions about our identity in a deeply disruptive and everchanging world; how will we enhance our psychological intelligence to meet the increasing demands of the future, and what do we need to do to be psychologically intelligent enough to live a meaningful life in a new world? It is a must read for all students, researchers and professionals involved with AI, Gifted Education, Consciousness, and Mental Health.

The New Psychology of Language
From Body to Mental Model and Back

Ton Dijkstra, David Peeters

This illuminating book offers an up-to-date introduction to the psychology of language, exploring aspects of language processing that have previously not been given centre stage such as the role of body and brain, social aspects of language use, and mental models. This accessible book is essential reading for students in disciplines such as psychology, cognitive science and neuroscience, artificial intelligence, biology, the language and communication sciences, and media studies. It is also a useful resource for a lay audience with an interest in language and communication.

The Practice of Ethical Leadership
Insights from Psychology and Business in Building an Ethical Bottom Line

Claas Florian Engelke, Richard B. Swegan

Both engaging and accessible, it offers effective suggestions for selecting and developing ethical leaders and invites readers to self-reflect and understand how to build ethical cultures within their organizations and beyond. Rooted in extensive psychological, philosophical, entrepreneurial, and business experience, this book will benefit academics as well as anyone who is invested in the fields of leadership, management, business, and Industrial-Organizational Psychology.

The Psychology of Health and Illness

Edited by Ami Rokach

The book examines the effects of various stresses, strains, and traumas in our lives, from the womb till adulthood. The consequences of such stresses are delineated, and the book describes ways of coping with it. The volume covers various issues that are related to and influence our health — from how adverse childhood experiences can affect our mental health, how partner violence can cause trauma on the physical and emotional health of its victims to examining the effect of assisted reproductive technology on the mother-child relationship. The chapters in this book were originally published in The Journal of Psychology.

The Psychology of Memory

Megan Sumeracki, Althea Need Kaminske

Series: The Psychology of Everything

The Psychology of Memory provides a unique insight into a fundamental part of being human, debunking many common misconceptions about what memory is, how memory works, and the accuracy of our memories. It explores the complexity of human memory, looking at how we remember different types of information and the impact of issues like ageing and emotion on how we create, store, and retrieve memories. Treating memory as malleable, dynamic, and active, The Psychology of Memory teaches us about how our individual memories function, and how we can harness this to see memory in a new way; to use the past, our experiences and information, in service of the present and future.

The Psychology of Time

Richard Gross

Series: The Psychology of Everything

The Psychology of Time considers how we define, describe, and experience time. From a discussion of how our language around time is dependent on metaphor, to the role of biology in controlling our bodily experience of time, the book delves into how the finitude of life is a given human experience. It looks at how we reflect on the passage of time throughout our lives, and how our experience of time can be influenced by diverse factors including our age, gender, health, and culture. Offering insights into something we are all immersed in, but often give little thought to, The Psychology of Time shows us how our understanding and experience of time can influence our everyday behaviour.

The Psychology of Vaccination

Olivier Klein, Vincent Yzerbyt

Series: The Psychology of Everything

The Psychology of Vaccination identifies the social psychological drivers of vaccine mindsets, to explore why some people choose to be vaccinated, some are hesitant, and others refuse. It explores the socio-demographic factors related to vaccine hesitancy and considers the role of motivation in making this health decision. The book focuses on how individuals are social beings, inserted into a web of influences that guide their behaviour, and considers the impact this may have on their health choices. The text offers an insightful look at our health behaviours and considers whether it is possible to affect health behaviour change.
The Role of Self and Adaptation in Learning and Development
Chasing Excellence

Daniel Rodriguez

This book introduces readers to Psychoadaptation – a general model of change that stresses the importance of experiencing disequilibrium in the development of a healthy Self- and applies it to a range of examples across the academic, sport and health domains. Offering a unique conceptualization to development, learning and behavior change, this is a useful resource for students and scholars within these areas, as well as clinicians working in the fields of health and sport. It will also benefit individuals looking to embark upon their own journeys to Self-development.

The Routledge International Handbook of Boredom

Edited by Maik Bieleke, Wanja Wolff, Corinna Martarelli

Series: Routledge International Handbooks

This comprehensive text examines boredom from a range of perspectives. The first section delves into the theoretical approaches to boredom, explaining when and why boredom occurs, and scrutinizing the impact it has on our behaviour. The second section focuses on the psychological and neural properties of boredom and its associations with a multitude of mental and interpersonal processes. The third section presents boredom in practical contexts and sheds light on its role for health-related behaviours, psychosocial wellbeing, and aesthetic experiences. This handbook is an essential resource for researchers of psychology, sociology, education, sport science, and computer science.

The Thin Woman

Feminism, Post-structuralism and the Social Psychology of Anorexia Nervosa

Helen Malson

Series: Psychology Press & Routledge Classic Editions

The Classic Edition of The Thin Woman, first published in 1998, provides an in-depth discussion of anorexia nervosa from a critical feminist social psychological standpoint. Based on original research using historical and contemporary literature on anorexia nervosa, and a series of interviews with women who identified as ‘anorexic’, this book offers critical insights into this problem. It is an invaluable read for anyone interested in eating disorders and gender, developments in feminist post-structuralist theory and discourse analytic research in psychology.
Theories of Development
Concepts and Applications

William Crain

Theories of Development introduces students to the most influential theorists who have contributed to our understanding of how we develop as individuals. The book discusses the theorists who have built upon the developmental tradition established by Rousseau, along with other theorists, including ethologists and psychoanalysts, who share a developmental outlook. It considers the different concepts they present along with their practical implications, whilst also discussing the ways in which developmental theorists have anticipated and advanced humanistic ideas and insights.

Visual and Motor Cognition in Infants and Children
What Develops and What Stays the Same

Christiane Lange-Küttner

This insightful book offers an authoritative yet accessible introduction to the development of visual abilities and motor skills in infants and children. Based on theory and cutting-edge up-to-date research about the development of non-verbal intelligence, it provides readers with essential knowledge about the foundations of typical and atypical development. The book encourages and stimulates new research ideas by discussing the most important research results to date. This text will be of interest to students and instructors as well as researchers in the fields of developmental, clinical, educational and cognitive psychology as well as neuroscience and physical education.

Where Language Meets Thought
Selected Works of Ellen Bialystok

Ellen Bialystok

In the World Library of Psychologists series, international experts present career-long collections of what they judge to be their most interesting publications – extracts from books, key articles, research findings, and practical and theoretical contributions. Including a specially written introduction, in which Ellen Bialystok reflects on the role that language plays on thought, this collection will serve as a valuable resource for students and researchers of psycholinguistics, developmental psychology and applied linguistics.
Bayesian Statistics for the Social Sciences, Second Edition

David Kaplan

This book equips social science researchers to apply the latest Bayesian methodologies to their data analysis problems. The second edition includes new chapters on model uncertainty, Bayesian variable selection and sparsity, and Bayesian workflow for statistical modeling, and emphasizes use of the RStan software package. Topics include frequentist and epistemic probability, prior distributions, Hamiltonian Monte Carlo, Bayesian linear regression and generalized linear models, model evaluation and comparison, multilevel modeling, missing data, and more. The book includes worked-through examples with annotated RStan code, and features a helpful companion website.

Computing Geographically

David O’Sullivan

Geographic information science (GISc) and systems (GIS) have grown rapidly in recent decades, increasingly on a separate track from geographic thought. As geography’s “big ideas”—such as space, place, boundaries, scale, process, and relationality—have evolved, what does this mean for their computational representation? This book considers how key concepts have developed in geography and are represented (or not) in GISc. David O’Sullivan shows how revisiting the theoretical underpinnings of geography offers insights on core GISc challenges— including map projections, the modifiable areal unit problem, and scale and map generalization—while also enriching geographic thought.

Diagnosis Made Easier, Third Edition

Principles and Techniques for Mental Health Clinicians

James Morrison

The third edition of this incisive practitioner resource and course text—updated for the DSM-5 Text Revision (DSM-5-TR)—takes the reader step by step through diagnostic decision making in mental health. Guidelines are presented for evaluating information from multiple sources, constructing a wide-ranging differential diagnosis, creating a safety hierarchy, and using decision trees to derive a working diagnosis. The book addresses specimen cases in diagnosing the three conditions most often seen in mental health practice, with an emphasis on how diagnosis informs effective treatment. More than 100 vivid vignettes illustrate the diagnostic process and allow readers to practice their skills.

Family-School Success for Children with ADHD
A Guide for Intervention

Thomas J. Power, Jennifer A. Mautone, Stephen L. Soffer

Series: The Guilford Practical Intervention in the Schools Series

Distilling decades of research, this practical manual presents an innovative intervention for families of 6- to 10-year-olds with attention-deficit/hyperactivity disorder (ADHD). Family–School Success (FSS) focuses on improving children’s behavior and academic performance by strengthening parent–child, teacher–student, and family-school relationships. Guidelines are provided for implementing with parent groups or individual families, including how to involve children in groups and collaborate with teachers. The authors discuss how to deliver FSS effectively in school and clinical settings. In a convenient large-size format, the book features reproducible handouts and implementation tools.

Handbook of Emotion Regulation, Third Edition

Edited by James J. Gross, Brett Q. Ford

This definitive handbook is now in an extensively revised third edition with all-new chapters and many new topics. Leading authorities examine how and why people try to regulate their emotions, the consequences of different regulatory strategies, and interventions to enhance this key area of functioning. The biological, cognitive, developmental, and social bases of emotion regulation are explored. The volume identifies critical implications of emotion regulation for mental and physical health, psychopathology, educational achievement, prosocial behavior, and other domains. Clinical and nonclinical interventions are critically reviewed and cutting-edge measurement approaches described.

Insider’s Guide to Graduate Programs in Clinical and Counseling Psychology
2024/2025 Edition
John C. Norcross, Michael A. Sayette
Featuring expert advice for applying to U.S. graduate schools in clinical and counseling psychology— as well as profiles of 320 doctoral programs—this authoritative resource has now been updated for 2024/2025. This is the book that students rely on for finding the programs that meet their needs and maximizing their chances of getting in. Profiles encapsulate each program’s specializations or tracks, admission requirements, acceptance rates, financial aid, research areas, and clinical opportunities. A detailed time line and multiple worksheets help students decide where to apply, build their credentials, develop strong applications, and make an informed final decision.

Mobile Sensing in Psychology
Methods and Applications
Edited by Matthias R. Mehl, Michael Eide, Cornelia Wrrzus, Gabriella M Harari, Ulrich W Ebner-Priemer
How can large-scale, real-time data on people’s behaviors, interactions, and environments improve psychological measurement, or lead to customized interventions? This cutting-edge handbook describes the key concepts of mobile sensing and explains how to plan and conduct a mobile sensing study. Renowned experts address the whats, whys, and how-tos of collecting “big data” using smartphones and other wearables, and describe modern statistical methods for analyzing mobile sensing data. The book includes best-practice examples of applications in clinical psychology, personality, health, and other areas. Key challenges and ethical/privacy issues are highlighted throughout.

Lessons of the Pandemic
Disruption, Innovation, and What Schools Need to Move Forward
David T. Marshall, Tim Pressley
The impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic in education have been pervasive and profound. This book concisely outlines the current crisis in schools in the core areas of student learning, student and teacher mental health, and teacher burnout. The authors detail the disruptions caused by prolonged school closures and remote instruction. They also identify some positive changes, such as increased use of technology, flexible work models, and greater attention to social and emotional learning. Sharing findings from original research, concrete examples, and teachers’ own voices about what they need to succeed, the book provides recommendations for moving schools forward effectively and sustainably.

The Psychology of Prejudice, Third Edition

Todd D. Nelson, Michael A. Olson

Addressing core questions about prejudice and stereotyping—their causes, consequences, and how to reduce them—this noted text is now in a thoroughly revised third edition with 50% new material. Social psychological theories and research are brought to life with compelling everyday examples. Students learn about the cognitive, emotional, motivational, contextual, and personality processes that make stereotyping and prejudice more (or less) likely to occur. The book reviews antistereotyping interventions and critically evaluates the evidence for their effectiveness. Every chapter concludes with an instructive glossary and discussion questions.

Social, Emotional, and Behavioral Supports in Schools

Linking Assessment to Tier 2 Intervention

Sara C. McDaniel, Allison L. Bruhn, Sara L. Estrapala

Meeting a critical need, this accessible guide addresses the "whats," "whys," and "how-tos" of developing and implementing effective Tier 2 social, emotional, and behavioral supports. The book reviews a range of evidence-based interventions. It provides steps for identifying students who could benefit from Tier 2, matching interventions to student needs, and making individualized, data-based decisions regarding adapting, fading, or intensifying supports. The place of Tier 2 in schoolwide positive behavior interventions and supports is explained, and keys to implementation fidelity are highlighted. In a large-size format, the book includes 24 reproducible/downloadable forms and checklists.

The Power of Instructional Coaching in Context

A Systems View for Aligning Content and Coaching

Jacy Ippolito, Rita M Bean

This book provides guidance for leveraging the power of instructional coaching and helping coaching programs succeed. It addresses the crucial importance of aligning instructional goals (content) with learners' needs. The book reviews antistereotyping interventions and critically evaluates the evidence for their effectiveness. Every chapter concludes with an instructive glossary and discussion questions.

Universal Design for Learning in the Classroom, Second Edition

Practical Applications for K-12 and Beyond

Edited by Tracey E. Hall, Kristin H Robinson, David Gordon

The Universal Design for Learning (UDL) framework has grown from its origins in special education to being widely used to support all students, making the fully rewritten second edition of this indispensable guide more relevant than ever. Filled with practical, vivid examples and tips, the book demonstrates the power of UDL when applied to particular content areas. Specific teaching ideas are presented for literacy, STEM, project-based learning, career and technical education, and the arts. With a spotlight on issues of equity and inclusion, the editors and contributors describe practical ways to create thriving learning environments that use UDL to meet diverse learners' needs.
Writing and Publishing Qualitative Research

Patricia Leavy

Ideal for graduate students and seasoned qualitative researchers, this is the first guide to writing and publishing in both scholarly and popular formats—from journal articles and monographs to op-eds and fictional works. Patricia Leavy covers everything from how to develop a unique writer’s voice to how to craft a successful book proposal, understand a publishing contract, and much more. The book is filled with tools for using data and theory in different genres, building a profile as a scholar, and getting research findings out into the world. Instructive features throughout include “dos and don’ts,” sample letters and proposals, excerpts from published works, and writing activities.

A Practical Guide to Theoretical Frameworks for Social Science Research

Andrea J. Bingham, Robert Mitchell, Daria S. Carter

This book offers a guide to finding, choosing, and applying theoretical frameworks to social sciences research. Using a multifaceted approach, the authors explain the connections among such concepts as ontology, epistemology, paradigm, theory, conceptual frameworks, and research methodology; and offer brief overviews of theories within multiple disciplines: sociology, psychology, education, leadership, public policy, political science, economics, organizational studies, and business. This book is a useful starting point for any researcher, but it will be especially useful for graduate students and early career researchers for an introduction to useful theories across disciplines.

Case Study Research in the Digital Age

John R. Gallagher

Case Study Research in the Digital Age is an in-depth exploration of the case study method as applied to social media, algorithms, digital networks, artificial intelligence, and online life. Written in an accessible way, this book presents a rigorous theoretical discussion of the very definitions of a case study, while providing guidance on case study definitions, research design, data collection, analysis, ethics, and case reporting. It can be used by a wide array of scholars, from novice to seasoned case study researchers, as well as a variety of disciplines, including but not limited to anthropology, communication, education, psychology, and sociology.

Constructing Composite Narratives

A Step-By-Step Guide for Researchers in the Social Sciences

Olivia Johnston

This book provides the first instructional guide to composite narrative research methods. Composite narratives are short vignettes that weave together quotes from multiple participants. The effect is to convey meaning to both academics and end-users, disseminating research findings succinctly and effectively. Readers interested in writing composite narratives will find a complete guide in this book. Many examples from the author are provided, complete with audit trails that evidence how the composite narratives were written from the raw qualitative research data. The intended audience includes qualitative researchers in the social sciences.

Embodied Research Through Music Composition and Evocative Life-Writing

Disrupting Diaspora

Soosan Lolavar

This book explores the concept of diaspora through the entanglement of experience and music, acting as a counterpoint to more positivistic approaches by bringing in autoethnographic and qualitative framing. Suitable for students and scholars of qualitative research, autoethnographic methods, development and diaspora studies, music and ethnomusicology scholars, and those interested in methods that disrupt research norms.

Evaluating Research in Academic Journals

A Practical Guide to Realistic Evaluation

Maria Tcheremi-Buzzeo, Fred Pyrczak

Evaluating Research in Academic Journals is a guide for students learning how to evaluate reports of empirical research published in academic journals. It breaks down the process of evaluating a journal article into easy-to-understand steps and emphasizes the practical aspects of evaluating research—not just how to apply a list of technical terms from textbooks. Common-sense models for evaluation combined with a lack of jargon make it possible for students to start evaluating research articles in the first week of class.

How to Use SPSS®

A Step-By-Step Guide to Analysis and Interpretation

Brian C. Cronk

This book is designed with the novice computer user in mind and for people who have no previous experience using SPSS. Each chapter is divided into short sections that describe the statistic being used, important underlying assumptions, and how to interpret the results and express them in a research report. The book begins with the basics, such as starting SPSS, defining variables, and entering and saving data. It covers all major statistical techniques typically taught in beginning statistics classes, such as descriptive statistics, graphing data, prediction and association, parametric inferential statistics, nonparametric inferential statistics and statistics for test construction.

How to Write Conceptual Papers in the Social Sciences

A Practical Guide for Students

Jon-Arild Johannessen, Bjorn Olsen

This book is a practical guide on how to write conceptual papers and use conceptual generalization as a research methodology. Divided into two parts, the book first focuses on the scientific foundation for conceptual generalization, to identify what is a conceptual model and how conceptual models can be developed. Part two focuses on how to write a winning conceptual thesis, covering conceptual generalisation and empirical generalisation, and discusses research problems and questions, and how to analyze them. This is the ideal resource for advanced undergraduate and postgraduate students, and researchers, in the social sciences.

Meaningful Journeys

Autoethnographies of Quest and Identity Transformation

Edited by Alec Grant, Elizabeth Lloyd-Parkes

Meaningful Journeys is an autoethnographic exploration of the conceptual, philosophical, and etymological origins of ‘journeying’ and ‘questing’ and the ways in which these intersect with identity. This book is essential reading for students and practitioners of autoethnography and qualitative inquiry and will be of particular interest to scholars and readers internationally, who are interested in identity transformation. This includes those wishing to use qualitative inquiry – subsuming autoethnography – as an approach to tackle, represent and guide, personal and social quest and identity transformation, and the subjective and intersubjective dimensions of this.

---

Method, Methodology and Research Design in Artistic Research

Between Solid Routes and Emergent Pathways

Falk Hübner

Method, Methodology and Research Design in Artistic Research offers a rich and innovative approach to method, research design and methodology of research in and through the arts. It spans the process from initial research design, ongoing and continuous decisions that need to be made while designing and carrying out research up to the analysis and reflection on this process when finished. Transdisciplinary in scope, this is not just a book “about”, but “to work with” methodology, supporting both seasoned and early career researchers, as well as supervisors in graduate, post graduate and doctoral education contexts.

Methods for Community-Based Research

Advancing Educational Justice and Epistemic Rights

Maria Paula Ghiso, Gerald Campano

Methods for Community-Based Research describes how Community-Based Research (CBR) is particularly suited to understanding and taking action on issues of educational justice. It will be of interest to advanced undergraduate, graduate students and scholars in education, and other disciplines that utilise a CBR method such as healthcare research and anthropology.
Moving Kinship: Practicing Feminist Justice in a More-than-Human World

Beatrice Allegranti

In this compelling text, choreographer and psychotherapist Beatrice Allegranti invites the reader into the transdisciplinary Moving Kinship project. Moving Kinship spans a decade of practice-led research with people experiencing early onset dementia, Black feminist activists, psychotherapists, LGBTQ+ artists and activists, capoeiristas, and an international team of professional dancers and composers, musicians and scientists.

Narratives of Qualitative Research: Making Praxis Visible

Josh Tenenberg

Narratives of Qualitative Research uses a novel form of writing about how to do qualitative research called a praxis narrative. Each narrative is told from the author’s perspective in carrying out one of his past research studies in the social sciences. This is fascinating reading for qualitative researchers, and students taking qualitative research courses, across the social sciences, education, and behavioural sciences.

No One Can Arrest Our Dreams: Black Men Storying a Path Towards Educational Justice and Freedom

Clarice O. Thomas

A narrative inquiry into the lives of three men, Robert, Rahem, and Warren, this book shares their stories about over-discipline in school, adverse teacher-student relationships, and violent community policing that proceeded and intersected with their involvement in the criminal justice system. This volume will appeal to faculty, scholars, and postgraduate students working across research methods, arts-based research and practice, and language and linguistics.

Poetic Inquiry and Arts-Based Research for the Maintenance of the Republic and What Comes After: A Vision for Metamodernity

Angelo J. Letizia

This book demonstrates the power of poetry and the ways in which academics can utilize poetry to go beyond the scholarly realm and create works of art which, unlike a traditional academic work, is told from the author’s perspective in carrying out one of his past research studies in the social sciences. This is fascinating reading for qualitative researchers, and students taking qualitative research courses, across the social sciences, education, and behavioural sciences.

Qualitative Inquiry in Transition—Pasts, Presents, & Futures: A Critical Reader

Edited by Norman K. Denzin, Michael D. Giardina

Qualitative Inquiry in Transition—Pasts, Presents, & Futures: A Critical Reader gathers more than 30 internationally-renowned scholars in qualitative inquiry present provocative interventions into the politics of research, philosophy of inquiry, justice matters, and writing practices. Qualitative Inquiry in Transition—Pasts, Presents, & Futures: A Critical Reader will be required reading for those seeking to understand where the field of qualitative inquiry has been and will look to go in the years to come.
Research Methods and Design Beyond a Single Discipline
From Principles to Practice
Heting Chu

This book presents and discusses 15 research methods after an overview of each, an illustration of the research process and an examination of related topics. The focus of this book is on data collection techniques and research design. This book is essential for masters and doctoral students, and researchers who wish to learn about research methods and design comprehensively and systematically, as well as instructors delivering research methods courses across the social and behavioral sciences.

Using Postmodern and Poststructural Approaches in Applied Research
Connecting Theory, Method, and Practice
Julianne Cheek, Megan Aston
Series: Developing Qualitative Inquiry

Using Postmodern and Poststructural Approaches in Applied Research introduces the complex theoretical approaches of postmodern and poststructural thought in ways that are accessible and understandable. This book is for students and researchers who want to use postmodern and poststructural approaches to make a difference in practice areas where they work or have connections. It intends to inspire, excite, and support students, academics, researchers, and practitioners, to use postmodern and poststructural concepts in their everyday practices.
