Tax Compliance and Risk Management
Perspectives from Central and Eastern Europe

Edited by Piotr Karwat, Katarzyna Kimla-Walenda, Aleksander Werner
Series: Routledge Research in Tax Law
The concept of tax compliance is as old as tax itself but staying compliant with tax regulations has become increasingly demanding. A changing tax regulatory environment, resulting from regulatory actions of the OECD, European Union and national governments, poses many problems for tax compliance awareness. This book explores various approaches to improving tax compliance. Starting with the procedures and processes that are at the centre of the debate, it includes the level of tax position security obtained as a result of cooperation between tax administration and an organisation, ending with tax compliance requirements imposed by one-sided action of tax administration.

Big Data and Competition Law
Market Power Assessment in the Data-Driven Economy
Alptekin Koksal
Series: Routledge Research in Competition Law
Recent studies on competition law and digital markets reveal that accumulating personal information through data collection and acquisition methods benefits consumers considerably. Free of charge, fast and personalised services and products are offered to consumers online. Collected data is now an indispensable part of online businesses to the point that a new economy, a data-driven sector, has emerged. Many markets such as the social network, search engine, online advertising and e-commerce are regarded as data-driven markets where the utilisation of Big Data is a requisite for the success of operations.

Causation in Insurance Contract Law
Mexian Song
Series: Contemporary Commercial Law
Now in its second edition, this unique book assists practitioners in answering one of the most important questions faced in the handling of insurance and tort claims. Through extensive case law analysis, this book scrutinises the causation theory in marine insurance and non-marine insurance law, and provides a comparative study on the causation test in tort law. This book is an invaluable and unique guide for insurance industry professionals, as well as legal practitioners, academics and students in the fields of insurance and tort law.

Commercial Contract Law and Arbitration
From Assignments to Unfair Terms
Edited by Mads Andenas, Maren Heidemann
This book tackles one of the most challenging fields of research and practice in the current global trade environment: integrating doctrines of private and public law for the sake of international commerce and trading. Debating policy issues in general private law reform, and including a juxtaposition of a traditionalist continuation oriented approach and a call for radical reform of entrenched and outmoded private law concepts to suit global commerce, this book will be of interest to students, academics and practitioners working in the area of commercial contract law and arbitration.

Legal Issues for Arts Organizations
A Practical Guide
Kristi W. Arth
Series: Discovering the Creative Industries
Legal issues touch every aspect of organizations in the creative and cultural sectors. This book teaches non-lawyers, arts administration professionals and students how to identify and manage legal issues common to arts organizations. With an easy-to-remember “issue-spotting” process, the book helps develop an administrator’s “eye” for legal issues, so that they know when to do more research and when to seek out professional legal assistance. Written by a law professor and former intellectual property litigator with experience in arts policy and administration, this book provides a framework that arts professionals can use to navigate legal issues with increased confidence.

Managing International Trade Risk
Customs, Revenue and VAT Compliance
Mark Rowbotham
Series: Contemporary Commercial Law
This book provides readers with an expert guide to measure, quantify and address customs, VAT and international trade risk, especially with a view to maximising the efficiency of both trade practice and the governance and collection of national revenue associated with the regulation and control of cross-border trade. Introduction to Customs, VAT and International Trade Risk Management is written for customs and VAT practitioners, lawyers, policy-makers, industry and financial professionals (international trade, tax and finance), scholars, lecturers, quasi-government organisations and Government departments (Treasury, Tax), as well as Chambers of Commerce.

Sustainability in Public Procurement, Corporate Law and Higher Education
Edited by Lela Melon
Series: Transnational Law and Governance
Contemporary changes in law and policy at the global level to efficiently answer to environmental and social issues correspond to the traditional approach of limiting the regulatory and policy changes to a singular field or discipline: tackling the inherent unsustainability of corporate laws or incentivising the offering of sustainable finance to stimulate the transition towards sustainable practices. This book provides a new viewpoint and approach of simultaneously regulating seemingly non-connected fields in order to provide a fertile ground for a truly organic change towards sustainable outcomes.
Comparative Law

The Grand Strategy of Comparative Law
Themes, Methods, Developments
Edited by Luca Siliquini-Cinelli, Davide Gianti, Mauro Balestrieri

This book features original essays by leading academics and emerging researchers written in honour of a legal comparatist who, over the course of four decades, has played a major role in comparative law's development: Pier Giuseppe Monateri. Addressing the current status and future direction of comparative law, this book will appeal to legal comparativists, as well as students and scholars with broader interests in the nature of legal cultures.

International Construction Law
An Overview
Edited by Wolfgang Breyer
Series: Construction Practice Series

This book is an in-depth analysis of international construction law from all the major jurisdictions of the world, alongside their relevant contract law principles, helping the reader to prepare for the complexity of an international construction project. The combination of truly international coverage with the practical insight of experienced practitioners means that this book will be invaluable to any professional involved in the construction industry including, lawyers, project managers, contractors and investors as well as academics in the field.

The Negative Turn in Comparative Law
Pierre Legrand

This book's essays aim subversively and resolutely to replace the hegemonic discursive frame governing comparative law. This book will benefit all law teachers and postgraduate law students interested in the workings of law on the international scene, whether specialists in comparative law, public international law, private international law, transnational law, or foreign relations law – in particular, individuals bringing to bear a critical inclination to their subject-matter.

The Law and Practice of Complex Construction Projects
Fabio Solimene
Series: Practical Legal Guides for Construction and Technology Projects

While including sections on the law applying to each phase, the book's primary focus is on the practical aspects faced on a daily basis by practitioners working in the construction industry. This book is important reading for professionals involved in construction law at every level, including relevant academics, government employees and lawyers. It will also serve as a useful book for students, providing a comprehensive overview of the many factors and phases of a complex construction project.

Innovative Project Management with FIDIC Contracts
Adriana Spassova
Series: Practical Legal Guides for Construction and Technology Projects

This book provides practical, comprehensive guidance for the implementation of the legal requirements of FIDIC contracts with a detailed application of modern project management principles. It demonstrates that the FIDIC suites for works and services contain many tools for good project management which can complement the innovation needed today to guide sustainable development. It is structured around project management knowledge areas, and details not only the FIDIC works contracts, but also the project management requirements of the contract between the employer and engineer and the FIDIC supply chain contracts, and explains how these all interface in project governance.

Gender-Based Violence and the Law

Global Perspectives and Eastern European Practices

Edited by Agnė Limantė, Artūras Tereškinas, Rūta Vaičiūnienė

This book presents a novel and insightful examination of gender-based violence, considering this topic from various perspectives. It encompasses various conceptual discussions and international regulations and trends, while emphasising the legal regulations and practices of select Central and Eastern European (CEE) countries. It covers areas that have received little attention in academic literature, such as gender-based violence in academia and cyberstalking, and incorporates recent empirical studies. The work will be a valuable resource for researchers, students, policymakers, and general readers interested in gender-based violence and the fight against it in the CEE region.

International Anti-Money Laundering and Soft Law

Approaches to Regulation

Emmanuel Ebikake

Series: The Law of Financial Crime

The consequence of the combination of a non-traditional subject matter with the limitations of traditional international law instruments has meant that lawmakers, seeking international solutions to the problems of money laundering have had to innovate. This book addresses two fundamental issues in the context of existing international and domestic responses to the problem of money laundering that have hitherto been neglected. These include the nature of the treaty obligations to criminalise money laundering, and the role of soft law as a technique to regulate it globally.

Military Investigations in Armed Conflict

Independence and Impartiality under International Law

Claire Simmons

Series: Routledge Research in the Law of Armed Conflict

An allegation is made that a war crime was committed by a soldier during a conflict. Who should investigate the allegation? How should they investigate? This book explores a topic of critical importance in legal and policy discussions surrounding the accountability of military operations in armed conflict, and problematises some presumptions that are often made about the topic.

Mobilities, Social Change and Crime
Lessons from Poland
Konrad Buczkowski, Paulina Wiktorska
This book presents a synthesis of selected trends in the dynamics and structure of crime in Poland in the context of ongoing social transformations. It explores the impact of the deep systemic transformation of the late 1980s and early 1990s on the phenomenon of crime, its structure and dynamics, and the policy of its control in the following decades. It examines the impact of the dynamic development of Polish society in the twenty-first century and looks to the future considering the global societal changes caused by the COVID-19 pandemic. The work will be of interest to academics and researchers working in the areas of Criminal Law, Criminology, Sociology and Criminal Policy.

Traumatised Witnesses in International Criminal Trials
Testimony, Fair Proceedings, and Accurate Fact-Finding Suzanne Schot
This book focuses on testimonial evidence of traumatised witnesses in trials of international crimes. It analyses proceedings and case law of the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia, the International Criminal Court, and Dutch courts prosecuting international crimes. It argues that there needs to be a balance between needs of witnesses testifying about traumatic experiences, the fair trial rights of the accused, and the court's objective to establish the responsibility of the accused. The work will be invaluable for researchers, academics and practitioners in criminal law, criminology, legal-psychology, legal-psychiatry, social anthropology and forensic sciences.

The Philosophy of Criminal Law
An Introduction
Christopher Cowley, Nicola Padfield
The Philosophy of Criminal Law: An Introduction explores the central concepts of criminal law, such as intention, complicity, duress, and how they work, both within criminal law practice and in our everyday lives, from legal and philosophical perspectives. Offering talking points to enrich an ongoing conversation, this unique textbook addresses all of these questions in an accessible way for law and non-law students alike. This text will be ideal reading for advanced undergraduate and graduate students of law, philosophy and criminology, as well as political science and sociology.

Domestic and Regional Environmental Laws and Policies in Africa
A Research Companion

Edited by Jean-Claude N. Ashukem, Semie M. Sama

This book explores African domestic and regional responses and approaches to environmental protection and sustainability. Written by African and international experts, the collection consists of five parts covering the whole of Africa. The collection will be a valuable resource for researchers, academics and policymakers in human rights law, environmental law, political science, ecology and conservation, environmental management, disaster management, and development studies.

Environmental Personhood
New Trajectories in Law

Francine Rochford

This book examines the increasingly widespread movement to recognise the environment as a legal person. Accessibly written, this book will appeal to scholars, students and others with interests in environmental law, environmental science and public policy, and ecology more generally.

Implementing International Environmental Law and Policy
An Interactive Approach to Environmental Regulation

Joanna Miller Smallwood

This book introduces a novel discourse, based on socio-legal theory of compliance with international environmental law, which addresses the overarching question: when can international environmental law and policy achieve implementation, compliance and be effective?

Insurance, Climate Change and the Law

Franziska Arnold-Dwyer

Series: Lloyd's Insurance Law Library

The insurance industry has found itself at the front line of climate change challenges, providing insurance cover in relation to risks associated with climate change. This book puts forward the case for a new role of the insurance industry as climate action enablers and makes proposals for insurance products and risk transfer and loss resilience structures that can support policymakers in their transition to a Net Zero economy. The audience for this book will include legal practitioners, insurance industry professionals, financial and insurance regulators, policymakers and interested academics.

Law, Humans and Plants in the Andes-Amazon
The Lawness of Life

Iván Darío Vargas Roncancio

Series: Law, Justice and Ecology

Extending law beyond the human, the book examines the conceptual openings, methodological challenges, and ethical conundrums of law in a time of socio-ecological transition. This book will be of interest to scholars and students in the disciplines of environmental law, Earth law and ecological law, legal theory and critical legal studies; as well as others working in the fields of Indigenous studies, environmental humanities, legal anthropology, and sustainability and climate change justice.

Rights of Nature in Europe
Encounters and Visions

Edited by Jenny García Ruales, Katarina Hovden, Helen Kopnina, Colin D. Robertson, Hendrik Schoukens

This book addresses the recognition of the Rights of Nature (RoN) in Europe, examining their conceptualization and implementation. This edited volume employs a multidisciplinary approach, exploring these interactions in law and policy, anthropology, Indigenous worldviews and jurisprudence, philosophy, spiritual traditions, critical theory, animal communication, psychology, and social work. It is tailored for scholars in law, political science, environmental studies, anthropology and cultural studies; as well as legal practitioners, NGOs, activists and policy-makers interested in ecology and environmental protection.
Routledge Handbook of Seabed Mining and the Law of the Sea

Edited by Virginie Tassin Campanella
Series: Routledge Handbooks in Law

This book gathers research chapters and an extensive review and analysis of regional and national practices from both States Parties and non-Party States to UNCLOS. By doing so, it brings attention to the current state of regulation of seabed mining activities at national, regional and international levels and related issues posed by the prospects of exploitation.

The Anthropocene Judgments Project

Futureproofing the Common Law

Edited by Nicole Rogers, Michelle Maloney

This book is a collection of speculative judgments that, along with accompanying commentaries, pursue a novel enquiry into how judges might respond to the formidable and planetary scaled challenges of the Anthropocene. It will appeal to critical and sociolegal academics, scholars in the environmental humanities, environmental lawyers, students and others with interests in the pressing issues of ecology, multispecies justice, climate change, the intersection of AI platforms and the law, and the future of law in the Anthropocene.

Unlocking Environmental Law

Simon Sneddon
Series: Unlocking the Law

Unlocking Environmental Law is the essential introduction to this fascinating, controversial and fast-moving area of contemporary law, ensuring that you grasp the main concepts with ease. Containing accessible explanations in clear and precise terms that are easy to understand, it provides an excellent foundation for learning and revising Environmental Law. Charting the development of regulations, examining emerging and future trends for environmental law, and looking at specific areas of law, including air pollution, climate change, laws around water, and the regulation of social and private space, this concise, accessible text is ideal for anyone new to environmental law.
Democracy, Protest and the Law

Defending a Democratic Right

Michael Head

This book explores the question of how to defend and extend democracy in an era of rising protests, social unrest and political discontent globally. It examines historical, social, political, ethical and legal issues raised by the democratic right to protest and legislative and executive measures taken by governments to restrict it. It shows that the United States, Britain and Australia have adopted anti-protest laws and other provisions that threaten protest rights and genuine democracy itself. The book will be of interest to students, academics and policy-makers in civil liberties and human rights, constitutional law, criminal justice, national security and environmental studies.

Human Rights and the UN Universal Periodic Review Mechanism

A Research Companion

Edited by Damian Etone, Amna Nazir, Alice Storey

The book argues that despite its limitations, the UPR mechanism with its inclusive, cooperative and collaborative framework, is an important human rights mechanism with the potential to evolve over time into an effective cooperative tool for monitoring human rights implementation. Divided into three parts, it examines a variety of theoretical approaches to understanding the UPR mechanism, the relationship between the UPR mechanism and other international mechanisms, and questions its future. The volume will be a valuable resource for researchers, academics and policy-makers working in the area of International Human Rights law, International Organizations and International Relations.

International Human Rights and Local Courts

Human Rights Interpretation in Indonesia

Edited by Aksel Temte, Eko Riyadi

Series: Routledge Research in Human Rights Law

This book explores how international human rights law can be applied at the domestic level through a case study of the Indonesian judiciary, exploring human rights within constitutional law, criminal law and private law. It pays particular attention to the role of the Indonesian judiciary in implementing human rights, and to the influence of international law and the role that actors other than the judiciary play in the process. The book will be of particular interest to human rights scholars concerned with national judiciaries’ role in human rights implementation, and to scholars, judges, civil society actors and legal practitioners working with law and human rights in Indonesia.

States of Emergency and Human Rights Protection

The Theory and Practice of the Visegrad Countries

Edited by Monika Florczak-Wątor, Fruzsina Gárdos-Orosz, Jan Malíř, Max Steuer

This volume presents and compares the existing regulations and practices of emergencies and human rights protection in the Visegrad (V4) countries. Divided into three parts, the first two comprehensively discuss the constitutional models of emergency and human rights protection in each of the V4 countries, while the third part illustrates how these models and the general framework of rights protection materialised in the limitations of the selected human rights during the COVID-19 pandemic. It will be a valuable resource for academics, researchers, and policy-makers working in the areas of Constitutional Law and Politics.

An Analysis of the Case Law

Erica Howard

This book examines the Islamic headscarf cases of the Court of Justice of the European Union (CJEU) in the context of the Islamophobia existing across Europe. It assesses how EU law can best protect women who want to wear headscarves at work for religious reasons and why this protection is important not only for the women but also for the EU. It puts forward arguments that workplace neutrality bans constitute direct religion or belief discrimination and examines how the justification test for indirect discrimination has been applied by the CJEU. The work will be of interest to academics, researchers and policy-makers in equality and non-discrimination law, EU law and law and religion.

Defending a Democratic Right

Michael Head

This book explores the question of how to defend and extend democracy in an era of rising protests, social unrest and political discontent globally. It examines historical, social, political, ethical and legal issues raised by the democratic right to protest and legislative and executive measures taken by governments to restrict it. It shows that the United States, Britain and Australia have adopted anti-protest laws and other provisions that threaten protest rights and genuine democracy itself. The book will be of interest to students, academics and policy-makers in civil liberties and human rights, constitutional law, criminal justice, national security and environmental studies.

Human Rights and the UN Universal Periodic Review Mechanism

A Research Companion

Edited by Damian Etone, Amna Nazir, Alice Storey

The book argues that despite its limitations, the UPR mechanism with its inclusive, cooperative and collaborative framework, is an important human rights mechanism with the potential to evolve over time into an effective cooperative tool for monitoring human rights implementation. Divided into three parts, it examines a variety of theoretical approaches to understanding the UPR mechanism, the relationship between the UPR mechanism and other international mechanisms, and questions its future. The volume will be a valuable resource for researchers, academics and policy-makers working in the area of International Human Rights law, International Organizations and International Relations.

The European Convention on Human Rights and the COVID-19 Pandemic

Ronagh J. A. McQuigg
Series: Routledge Research in Human Rights Law

This book provides detailed analysis of the applicability of the provisions of the European Convention on Human Rights to issues raised by the COVID-19 pandemic. It argues that the European Court of Human Rights should be cautious of finding breaches of the European Convention on Human Rights in cases involving public restrictions which were applied to protect life and health in response to a global pandemic. It is argued that to preserve the legitimacy of human rights law, the Court must be cautious of applying an overly narrow margin of appreciation in such cases. The work will be of interest to academics, researchers and policy-makers working in the area of Human Rights.
Intellectual Property Rights, Copynorm and the Fashion Industry
A Comparative Analysis

Marlena Jankowska

This book traces the development of the fashion industry, providing insight into the business and, in particular, its interrelations with copyright law. It confronts the peculiarities of the fashion industry as a means of demonstrating the importance of intellectual property protection while pointing out the many challenges involved. It provides a copyrightability test for fashion goods based on detailed analysis of legal regulations in the USA and EU countries, specifically Italy, France, the Netherlands, Germany and Poland. The book will be of interest to researchers and academics working in the areas of Intellectual Property Law, Copyright Law, Business Law, Fashion Law and Design.

Recreating Creativity, Reinventing Inventiveness
AI and Intellectual Property Law

Edited by Nikos Koutras, Niloufer Selvadurai
Series: Law and Change

As artificial intelligence (AI) is increasingly used to generate inventions and creative works, a critical question to be addressed is whether intellectual property (IP) laws should protect such works. This book examines the critical question of whether intellectual property laws should protect works generated by artificial intelligence. The book will enable both lawyers and non-lawyers to re-imagine governance frameworks to create laws that equitably balance the interests of creators, investors and end users of AI-generated works.

This book will be of interest to scholars and activists with interests in socio-legal studies of immigration and refugee law, as well as others in social movement studies, critical legal studies, border criminology and critical theory.

Cross-Border Insolvency Proceedings
Policies and Directives in the European Union

Remigijus Jokubauskas

This book presents an analysis of the effectiveness of European Union cross-border insolvency proceedings. It provides a thorough assessment of the development of cross-border insolvency proceedings established in the Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings (EU) 2015/848 and how they contribute to the general goals of the EU internal market. This book will be of interest to students and practitioners of insolvency law, EU law and private international law. It will also be useful for national legislators and EU institutions working on the development of EU insolvency law.

Cultural Heritage, Sustainable Development and Human Rights
Towards an Integrated Approach

Edited by Laura Pineschi
Series: Routledge Studies in Cultural Heritage and International Law

This book offers a thorough academic investigation on the importance of cultural heritage to sustainable development and cultural rights from an international law perspective. Providing an in-depth review of the possible intersections between cultural heritage, sustainable development and cultural rights and the limits of the current legal and institutional framework, it will be of interest to researchers and scholars of international law, cultural heritage law, environmental law and human rights law.

Evidence: Law and Context

Claire McGourlay, Mark Thomas, Suzanne Gower

Evidence: Law and Context explains the key concepts of evidence law in England and Wales clearly and concisely, set against the backdrop of the broader political and theoretical contexts. The book focuses on the essential topics commonly found on Evidence courses, covering both criminal evidence and civil evidence. Taking a contextual approach, the authors show how wider policy debates and societal trends have impacted upon the recent evolution of the law, helping to explain how and why the law has developed. Well written, clear and with a logical structure throughout, it contains all the information necessary for any undergraduate evidence law module.

Home and International Law
Dispossession, Displacement and Resistance in Everyday Life

Henrietta Zeffert

This book is about home and international law. More specifically, it is about the profound, and frequently devastating, transformations of home that are happening almost everywhere in the world today, and what international law has to do with them. This book’s global socio-legal approach to international law and home will be of interest to those teaching and studying in international law, socio-legal studies, legal pluralism and legal geography.

India and Investor-State Dispute Settlement
Affronting Sovereignty or Indicting Capriciousness?

Prabhash Ranjan
Series: Routledge Research in International Economic Law

With a focus on six case studies, this book examines the reasons that led to foreign investors suing India and the following developments. Ranjan examines a case arising from judicial actions, claims brought because of the cancellation of a contract to lease spectrum, conflicts resulting from the imposition of retroactive taxes, and disputes arising from the actions of sub-national governments. By telling India’s ISDS story, the book drives home the point that rectifying the ISDS system’s flaws requires both narratives’ centrality. A useful reference for scholars and practitioners interested in ISDS and its implications for India.
International Cooperation, Competition Authorities and Transnational Networks

Mateusz Blachucki

This book examines network cooperation taking place within international organizations as well as networks based on binding international agreements and various informal networks. It analyzes forms of international cooperation among National Competition Authorities that are taking place within transnational competition networks. It classifies these by grouping them into soft, developed and enhanced cooperation, discussing each in detail. The work will be of interest to researchers, academics and advanced students in competition law, public administration, international relations and those interested in international competition law and its contribution to global public governance.

2ND EDITION

International Organizations and the Law

Alexandra R. Harrington

International Organizations and the Law addresses the laws relating to international organizations, their undertakings, and the ways in which specific international organizations function and interact with one another. The second edition has been fully revised and updated to include coverage of: the COVID-19 pandemic and its impact on the functions of international organizations, the invasion of Ukraine and the stresses placed on the UN, NATO and the international community, increased efforts in the climate change sector as well as the overhaul of the NAFTA system, and the impact of Brexit.

Law Reforms Around the World

Perspectives from National and International Law

Edited by Asif H Qureshi

Encapsulating law reform requires the creation of a discrete space occupied with normative self-generations, self-correction, and self-adaptation in the anatomy of law and the architecture of legal systems. This edited volume sheds light on law reform. It examines the process of law reform and explains the need for a constant appraisal to keep its wheels optimally operational. This volume should appeal to students, serious scholars, policy makers, judges and the community of national and international lawyers interested in bringing effective reform in the national and international arenas.

Law, Culture and Identity in Central and Eastern Europe

A Comparative Engagement

Edited by Cosmin Cercel, Alexandra Mercescu, Mirosław Michał Sadowski

Combining insights from comparative legal theory, jurisprudence and legal history, this collection examines the legal and constitutional identity of Central and Eastern Europe. This book will appeal to scholars and students in the area of comparative law, as well as lawyers, political scientists, sociologists and historians with particular interests in Central and Eastern Europe.

Law, Development and Regulatory Globalisation

The Case of the World Bank in India’s Electricity Sector

Adithya Chintapanti

Exploring the phenomenon of diffusion of legal norms accompanying economic globalisation in developing countries, this book examines the blanket imposition of standard regulatory templates, maintaining that every jurisdiction requires customised legal solutions. Providing a detailed empirical analysis of this key aspect of development policy, this book will be of interest to scholars and students in the fields of law and development, politics and public administration, as well as development practitioners and policy makers.
Leading Works in International Law
Edited by Donna Lyons
Series: Analysing Leading Works in Law
This book offers an innovative and engaging way of assessing the development of international law scholarship and practice by focusing on the ‘leading works’ of the discipline. It presents contributions from leading scholars of public international law. The works discussed represent a diverse range of subjects within the discipline. Each chapter analyses the importance and legacy of a specific work, reflecting upon how that publication has contributed to shaping the broader literature in the field and how it may continue to have an influence on scholarship and practice in the future. The book will be a valuable resource for lawyers, international law practitioners, students, and academics.

Legal Thought and Eastern Orthodox Christianity
The Addresses of Ecumenical Patriarch Bartholomew I
Edited by Norman Doe, Aetios Nikiforos
Series: Law and Religion
In this book, leading scholars across the world reflect critically on the significance of the legal thought of Ecumenical Patriarch Bartholomew I for human flourishing, Christian social teaching and Christian unity. His legal thought is summed up in five key public addresses that he has delivered around the world in recent years, on: church law as an ecumenical instrument; the role of religion in a changing Europe; Orthodoxy and human rights; religion and freedom; and climate change, ecumenical imperatives. The book will be essential reading for academics and researchers in the areas of Law and Religion, Legal Philosophy, Comparative Canon Law, Theology and Ecumenical Studies.

Regulating Gig Work
Decent Labour Standards in a World of On-demand Work
Joellen Riley Munton, Michael Rawling
Series: Law and Change
Digital revolution demands new approaches to regulating work. The ‘Uberisation of work’ is not in reality a new phenomenon. It reintroduces the practices of ‘on demand’ engagement of labour common prior to the development of continuing employment.

Science, Technology, Policy and International Law
Edited by Justo Corti Varela, Paolo Davide Farah
Series: Transnational Law and Governance
This book presents innovative insights into the intersections between science, technology and society, and their regulation by the law. Departing from the idea that law and science have similar methods and objectives, the book deals with problems and solutions that source from these interactions. Building on a functionalist and comparativist approach, it explores how best to integrate law, science and technology in policy-making. It reviews the current attempts made at transnational and international levels. Case studies complement a solid theoretical framework, providing readers with tools for thinking critically around the relationships among science, technology, society and law.

Sovereignty and the Limits of International Law
Regulating Areas Beyond National Jurisdiction
Todd Berry
Series: Routledge Research in International Law
The inspiration for this book comes from negotiations that are taking place under the auspices of the United Nations by an intergovernmental conference for a new International Legally Binding Instrument (ILBI) under the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea (UNCLOS) on the conservation and sustainable use of marine biological diversity of Areas Beyond National Jurisdiction (ABN). The proposed ILBI is attempting to fill existing gaps under international law over marine biodiversity and marine genetic resources (MGR) in ABN.

The African Continental Free Trade Area Agreement
The Development of a Rules-Based Trading Order
Kofi Oteng Kufuor
Series: Routledge Studies on Law in Africa
In 2018 the members of the African Union adopted the African Continental Free Trade Area Agreement (AfCFTA). This book examines the AfCFTA, dissecting its key provisions. It stresses the importance of the AfCFTA against increasing episodes of trade protection in Africa, and it theorizes on the role of the Treaty organs. The book also examines the importance of citizen participation for the success of the AfCFTA as well as exploring the role sub-state actors can play.
The African Continental Free Trade Area Agreement

Collins C. Ajibo

Series: Routledge Research in International Law

This book provides a comprehensive assessment of African economic integration through the lens of International Economic Law. The analysis is contextualized within the prevailing regional economic integrations, the WTO and the peculiarity of AfCFTA. Through legal analysis, bolstered by economic and political dimensions of AfCFTA, the book illustrates the complex interplay of diverse factors that shape AfCFTA. The book will be of interest to students, instructors, practitioners and non-practitioners in this area of international economic law.

The Jewish Law Annual Volume 22

Edited by Benjamin Porat, David C. Flatto

Series: Jewish Law Annual

Volume 22 of The Jewish Law Annual adds to the growing list of articles on Jewish law that have been published in volumes 1–21 of this series, providing English-speaking readers with scholarly articles presenting jurisprudential, historical, textual and comparative analysis of issues in Jewish law. This volume features articles on rabbinic criminal law, tort law, jurisprudence, and judicial practice.

The Dialectics of Democracy

Towards a Socialist Constitutionalism

Dimitrios Kivotidis

This book examines how the democratic form and the struggle for democracy reflects, influences and shapes the struggle for social emancipation. This significant work of legal and political theory will be of considerable interest to those working in these areas to make sense of contemporary developments, and to further the causes of social justice and social emancipation.

The Regulation of Digital Technologies in the EU

Act-ification, GDPR Mimesis and EU Law Brutality at Play

Vagelis Papakonstantinou, Paul De Hert

Series: Routledge Research in the Law of Emerging Technologies

This book identifies three phenomena which are common to all EU digital technologies-relevant regulatory initiatives: act-ification, GDPR mimesis and regulatory brutality. These three phenomena serve as indicators or early signs of a new European technology law-making paradigm that by now seems ready to emerge.

The European Union as a Normative Power

The Role of the CJEU

Yuval Reinfeld

Series: Routledge Research in EU Law

Examining the role of the CJEU in shaping the European Union as a Normative power, this book explores the influence of the Court of Justice of the European Union on Normative Power Europe to evaluate the extent to which the CJEU’s actions consolidate normative foreign policy in third states. The book analyses several case studies which present the triangular relations between CJEU rulings, EU institutions, and third countries. Taking an interdisciplinary approach, this book will be of interest to academics and students researching aspects of European law, international law, or international relations.

The Transnational Crime of Human Trafficking

A Human Security Approach

Maria O’Neill

Series: Transnational Criminal Justice

This book focuses on the transnational nature of human trafficking and the need for practitioners to operate across borders to combat it. Europe’s distinctive approach to cross border law enforcement and judicial cooperation could be used as a model in other areas of the world. This work examines these problems from a Council of Europe and European Union perspective, including the now post-Brexit UK. Further action in legal and operational frameworks is clearly needed and the book advocates adopting a human security “freedom from fear” approach. It will be of interest to academics, researchers and policy-makers in Transnational Law, Migration Law, Criminology, and International Relations.
The Western Sahara Question and International Law: Recognition Doctrine and Self-Determination

Stephen Allen, Jamie Trinidad

This book analyses recent developments concerning the application of the international legal doctrines of recognition and self-determination in relation to the Western Sahara Question. It investigates the emergent shift in favour of Morocco’s sovereignty claim to Western Sahara and the recent spate of third States establishing consulates in Western Sahara. It will be of interest to scholars, researchers, postgraduate students and practitioners of public international law with interest in decolonisation, self-determination disputes and/or conflicts about natural resource entitlements. It will also appeal to readers with an interest in the work of International Organisations.

Theory of Obligations in International Law

Cezary Mik

Series: Routledge Research in International Law

Examining the fulfilment of international obligations by subjects of this law, this book explores the normative and functional links between the sources and rules of international law on the one hand, and the responsibility for violating international law on the other. It proposes a new approach to the issue of the proper operation of international law, with the theory of obligations at its heart. The volume will be of interest to scholars, students and practitioners concerned with international law - its creation, performance, application, compliance and enforcement.

Children, the Law and the Welfare Principle
European Judicial Perspectives

Kerry O’Halloran
Series: Children and the Law
This book continues the themes addressed by its five predecessors in this series by examining the role of the principle of the welfare interests of the child as addressed in international legislation and by international courts. It reveals how the law relating to children is changing across Europe. Lawyers, academics and other researchers will find a wealth of information on how the law has evolved to reflect corresponding changes in social mores. For those interested in politics and social policy, there is much illuminating evidence on how the law has balanced this principle relative to others – such as proportionality and subsidiarity - within both civil and criminal contexts.

English Law, the Legal Profession, and Colonialism
Histories, Parallels, and Influences

Edited by Cerian Griffiths, Łukasz Jan Korporowicz
Series: Routledge Studies in Comparative Legal History
This collection brings together experts in the field of law and history to explore how law and lawyers contributed to the expansion of the British Empire, and how the Empire influenced the Metropole. It sheds new light on the role of the law and legal actors during the establishment of the Empire. Exploring such topics as Atlantic relations, the impact of British jurists upon Indian law, and the development of the law settler colonies, it reveals some lesser-known intersections between law, history, and empire. It will be of interest to students and researchers in legal history, comparative history, equity and trusts, contract law, the legal profession, slavery, and the British Empire.

<td>This volume explores challenges for law brought about by various disruptive realities, exploring the past as well as the future. Following the text of the opening lecture by Pitamic, contributions deal with the law and revolution in 1918, challenges posed for law by seemingly more gradual political or technological transformations, the effects of globalisation and the changing world, with the final contributions reassessing the law, its methodologies and traditional paradigms including challenges posed for law by the Covid-19 pandemic. The book will be of interest to academics, researchers and policy-makers working in the areas of Legal History, Jurisprudence and Law and Politics.</td>

The Logic of Legal Argumentation

Multi-Modal Perspectives

Marko Novak
Series: Law, Language and Communication
Multi-modal argumentation with its logical, emotional, visceral and kisical arguments is an important addition to logical argumentation, especially when real-life situations are considered. It does not discard logic but adds other modes of argumentation to complement it, to emphasize the realistic environments of communication. The work will be of interest to academics and researchers in the areas of Legal Theory, Legal Linguistics, Philosophy of Law, and Communication Studies.

Critically Ill Children and the Law
Medical Decision-Making and the Best Interests Principle

James Cameron

This book explores the foundations of the best interests principle, and alternatives offered in the academic literature, to consider why the principle remains contentious despite its prevalence for addressing medical decisions for seriously ill children. It provides theoretical background, exploration of what occurs in practice, and proposes a novel approach to address these challenges. Progressing the debate around end-of-life decision-making, and children, the book will be a valuable resource for academics, researchers and policy-makers. It will also provide practical guidance to legal and medical practitioners in managing disputes about the provision of life-sustaining treatment.

Global Pandemics and International Law
An Analysis in the Age of Covid-19

Ilja Pavone

This book reviews the efficacy of Global Health Law, assessing whether its legal framework based on the International Health Regulations represents a valid tool in the containment of modern global pandemics such as COVID-19. The book provides an introduction to the international legal framework surrounding epidemics and pandemics and the main global governance issues that have been generated by the COVID-19 outbreak. The work will be essential reading for academics, researchers and policy-makers working in International Law, Health Law, Environmental Law, Biowar, Bioethics and the Law of International Organizations.

Occupational Health & Safety Solutions
Practical Compliance

Ian Bollans, David Preece

Occupational Health & Safety Solutions: Practical Compliance takes a comprehensive approach by covering the main subject areas of occupational health and safety and is relevant to all types of workplaces, with the main emphasis being on practical application.
The book is written for non-safety professionals such as managers and directors who want to discharge and manage their health and safety responsibilities in their workplace without the need to engage a consultant. It will also appeal to the safety professional by providing an authoritative guide to current best practice together with the practicalities of managing health and safety risks.

Regional Cooperation, Intellectual Property Law and Access to Medicines
A Holistic Approach for Least Developed Countries

Tolulope Anthony Adekola

Series: Routledge Research in Health Law
This book examines the potential for regionalization of intellectual property law and policy as a means of improving pharmaceutical access for least developed countries. It takes the East African Community as a case study of developing and least developed countries to illustrate why a regional collective approach is preferred.
It adopts a holistic approach in finding sustainable solutions to IP and non-IP barriers to pharmaceutical access across a range of interrelated issues through a regional cooperative scheme. It will be a valuable resource for academics, researchers and policy-makers in Public

The Law and Regulation of Public Health
Global Perspectives on Hong Kong

Eric C. Ip

Series: Routledge Studies in Asian Law
Public health law has been a subject of much controversy and contention especially since the COVID-19 pandemic broke out. This timely book inquires into the foundational principles of a form of public health law which takes seriously the inherent dignity of the human person. Written from a multidisciplinary perspective, this illuminating study makes the case that the rule of law, just as much as population health, is an essential determinant of human well-being. A must read for anyone who is interested to gain insights into public health law and regulation in this highly internationalised Chinese Special Administrative Region.

The Law of Cryonics
A Legal Philosophical and Financial Analysis

Pierre de Gioia Carabellese, Camilla Della Giustina

This book draws a subtle balance between bioethics and financial regulation. While the legal topic of human preservation or cryoconservation may, at least prima facie, be regarded as belonging to the traditional realm of medical law, the findings presented here suggest that its potential has strong economic implications. The work argues that it is necessary also to look at this subject from a more interdisciplinary perspective, drawing a fil rouge between two otherwise seemingly opposing areas of law: medical law and financial regulation. It will be of interest to researchers and academics in medical law, legal philosophy, financial law, property law and insurance law.
British Origins and American Practice of Impeachment

Edited by Chris Monaghan, Matthew Flinders
Series: Routledge Frontiers in Accountability Studies
This collection brings together historians, political scientists and legal scholars to explore the Anglo-American origins of impeachment and its use in the USA. Part one focuses on the history of impeachment and how it developed in British history. The inclusion of Ireland reflects the constitutional status of impeachment, the legacy of union with Great Britain and how impeachment can still serve as a deterrent. Part two examines the adoption of impeachment within the US Constitution and its use in practice. The third part discusses impeachment in the 21st century. The book will be an essential resource for students, academics and researchers in law, political science and history.

Constitutional Review in Western Europe
Judicial-Legislative Relations in Comparative Perspective

Edited by Kálmán Pócza
Some political actors have argued that courts have assumed too much power and politics has been extremely judicialized. Yet the extent to which this aggregation of power may have constrained the dominant political actors’ room for manoeuvre has never been examined accurately and systematically. This volume fills this gap in the literature. To explore the diversity and measure the strength of judicial decisions, the authors have elaborated a new methodology that is intended to give a more nuanced picture of the practice of constitutional adjudication in Europe.

Constitutional Review in Central and Eastern Europe
Judicial-Legislative Relations in Comparative Perspective

Edited by Kálmán Pócza
Confrontations between constitutional courts and parliamentary majorities have attracted international interest in the relationship between the judiciary and the legislature. This book examines the extent to which this aggregation of power may have constrained dominant political actors’ room for manoeuvre. To explore diversity and measure strength of judicial decisions, contributors have elaborated a methodology to give a nuanced picture of constitutional adjudication in Central and Eastern Europe between 1990 and 2020. It will be an invaluable resource for empirical legal research and comparative constitutional law, as well as political scientists interested in judicial politics.

Impeachment in a Global Context

Law, Politics, and Comparative Practice

Edited by Chris Monaghan, Matthew Flinders, Aziz Z. Huq

Series: Routledge Frontiers in Accountability Studies

This volume considers the use of impeachment within a global context. Leading scholars and experts give an insight into significant periods in the development of impeachment and its modern comparative use. It underlines its significance in terms of understanding the relationship and inter-dependence between politics, governance and the law, and explores the topic of impeachment through the lenses of democracy, human rights and the rule of law. It offers a novel conceptual framework that facilitates the global mapping of impeachment processes. It presents the definitive text on impeachment for students and scholars in comparative public law, politics, and constitutional studies.

Public Administration and Expertise in Democratic Governments

Comparative Public Law in the Twenty-First Century

Edited by Susan Rose-Ackerman

Series: Routledge Research in Public Law

This work explores challenges confronting public law and public administration in twenty-first century democracies across the world. It emphasizes the importance of justifying executive policymaking to citizens and of drawing on bureaucratic expertise and professional competence. It examines the role of courts and argues for new forms of public participation that incorporate democratic values into executive branch policymaking. The book compares the US with other leading democracies like Germany, France, the EU, Canada and Latin America. Supermajorities in Constitutional Courts

Mauro Arturo Rivera León

This book advances our knowledge of systems employing supermajorities in constitutional adjudication by performing a comparative analysis of ten jurisdictions and twelve supermajority models. It introduces a typology of the main models of institutional design, the reasons leading policymakers to establish them, and the impact supermajorities have on courts. It explores the question of whether supermajorities grant deference and foster consensus, or if they disable Constitutional Courts from exercising judicial review. It will be a valuable resource for academics, researchers and policy-makers working in the areas of Comparative Constitutional Law and Constitutional Politics.

Criminalizing Motherhood and Reproduction

Cover Image

Not Available

Edited by Michelle Hughes Miller

In this book, motherhood and reproduction are identified as sites of legal, political, and ideological surveillance, regulation, and criminalization. Collectively, this rich and diverse volume builds on cross-disciplinary frameworks and an attention to differences among mothers to analyze multiple ways that mothers and pregnant women face culture, policy, or practices that may criminalize their identities or their actions. The chapters included in this book were originally published as a special issue of Women & Criminal Justice.

Gender and Crime

Contemporary Theoretical Perspectives

Edited by Sandra L. Browning, Leah C. Butler, Cheryl Lero Jonson

Series: Advances in Criminological Theory

In 1975, Freda Adler published her pathbreaking book, Sisters in Crime: The Rise of the New Female Criminal and opened up a vibrant new area within criminology: the study of gender and crime. Now nearly a half century later, the field of criminology is replete with women scholars who are making plentiful and important contributions. As a result, this volume explores cutting-edge issues and takes stock of modern perspectives on gender and crime, which will be of great interest to criminologists and students in graduate and upper-level undergraduate courses.

Gratuitous Angst in White America
A Theory of Whiteness and Crime
Deena A. Isom
Series: Criminology and Justice Studies
Gratuitous Angst in White America presents a new criminological theory that explains the racialized experiences of white people. This book examines the racialized history of America to contextualize the current racial strife in society and inform a more nuanced theoretical approach to explaining disparities. Gratuitous Angst in White America is essential for those seeking a more complete understanding of the associations between race and crime and those who want to remedy those disparities. In the end, it is more than a new theory of crime, it is a call to action for all willing to hear.

Interrogating the Use of LGBTQ Slurs
Still Smearing the Queer?
Meredith Worthen
Series: Queering Criminology and Criminal Justice
Interrogating the Use of LGBTQ Slurs provides a critical exploration of LGBTQ slurs through its innovative focus on hetero-cis-normativity and Norm-Centered Stigma Theory (NCST), the first ever testable theory about stigma. Based on research with more than 3,000 respondents, the ways gender/sexuality norm-violators are stigmatized and disciplined as "others" through asserting and affirming stigmatising norms are highlighted alongside other unique elements of slur use (joking and bonding).

Investment of Criminal Proceeds into the Legitimate Economy
An Analysis of Italian and Russian Organised Crime in the UK Real Estate Market
Emanuele Sclafani
Series: Routledge Studies in Organised Crime and Illegal Markets
This book explores the infiltration of Italian and Russian organised crime in the UK real estate market, assessing how vulnerable the UK is to these sorts of activities. It identifies the activities behind the criminal choices and modus operandi of Italian and Russian organised crime groups, and the factors causing their mobility abroad. Investment of Criminal Proceeds into the Legitimate Economy broadens our knowledge on the relationship between criminal agency and criminogenic opportunity in a socio-economic and legal context.

Racial and Prejudicial Stereotyping by Police
Its Impact on Investigative Interviewing and the Outcomes of Criminal Investigations
Rashid Minhas
Series: Directions and Developments in Criminal Justice and Law
Racial and Prejudicial Stereotyping by Police uncovers the influence of racial and prejudicial stereotyping during police investigation of suspects from stigmatised communities. The author introduces the Minhas Investigative Interviewing Prejudicial Stereotyping Scale (MIIPSS), an instrument developed to assess the level of police interviewers’ racial and prejudicial stereotyping towards suspects from stigmatised groups, and maintains that its use would serve to minimise the influence of racial and prejudicial stereotypes on investigation. This book will benefit academics, researchers, police officers, lawyers, social policy officers, and probation officers across the globe.

Zemiology and Human Trafficking

Avi Boukli

Series: Routledge Studies in Organised Crime and Illegal Markets

This book expands the literature on social harm by applying the concept of zemia to human trafficking investigations in Europe, North America, and Africa. This book draws attention not only to various structurally imbedded harms, but also to the wider consequences of such harms. Drawing on a range of international legal cases on trafficking, this book offers a new direction in criminological and zemiological thinking and a reimagining of criminal justice responses to harm.

4TH EDITION

White-Collar Crime

An Opportunity Perspective

Michael L. Benson, Sally S. Simpson, Melissa Rorie, Jay P. Kennedy

Series: Criminology and Justice Studies

White-Collar Crime: An Opportunity Perspective analyzes white-collar crime using the opportunity perspective, which assumes that all crimes depend on offenders recognizing an opportunity to commit an offense. With this fourth edition, Benson and Simpson have enlisted the aid of two young white-collar crime scholars, Jay P. Kennedy and Melissa Rorie, who bring new areas of expertise to the book that enhance its analytical depth and coverage of both white-collar crime and the opportunity perspective. The edition reaffirms that this rigorous yet accessible book will remain a core resource for undergraduate and early graduate courses on white-collar crime.

Better Crime Prevention

Nick Tilley

Better Crime Prevention provides a critical guide to theory, research, ethics and politics in relation to crime prevention policy and practice. It concludes with an agenda for continuous improvement. The book also demonstrates what is involved in doing theoretically informed and realistic applied social science orientated to reducing harms.

Growing Up and Out of Crime

Desistance, Maturation, and Emerging Adulthood

Elias Nader

Developmental norms and expectations for young people aged 18-25 have diverged from previous generations, shifting the role of maturation that prompts us to examine if and how this maturation can influence desistance from crime. Growing Up and Out of Crime is perfect for students, scholars, and academics who study young people and their behavior across maturation, deviance, and desistance, as well as for practitioners working on desistance or working with young people engaged in deviance.

Gun Control in Context

Learning from the Australian Gun Control Experience

Suzanna Fay

This book approaches the gun control debate by asking what it takes to achieve acceptance of, and compliance with, gun control regulations in a community thought to be opposed and resistant. It does this by centering this question on the experience of gun dealers who occupy a dual role in the compliance process - subject to its regulations, yet central to the application of all regulatory processes. Gun Control in Context is essential reading for all those engaged across the broad spectrum of the gun control debate and offers a grounded and reasoned approach to the challenges of public policy.
Constitutional Law for Criminal Justice

Jacqueline R. Kanovitz, Jefferson L. Ingram, Christopher J. Devine

Constitutional Law for Criminal Justice, 16th Edition, offers criminal justice professionals the training they need to recognize the constitutional principles that apply to their daily work. Kanovitz and revision authors Jefferson Ingram and Christopher Devine provide a comprehensive, well-organized, and up-to-date analysis of constitutional issues that affect the US justice system. Constitutional Law for Criminal Justice is a student-friendly textbook that has remained a leader in criminal justice education for more than 50 years.

Higher Education and the Carceral State

Transforming Together

Edited by Annie Buckley

This book explores the diversity of ways in which university faculty and students are intervening in the system of mass incarceration through the development of correctional education programs for students in correctional settings that often result in mutual learning among both populations. Demonstrating the ways that higher education can intervene in and disrupt the deeply traumatic experience of incarceration and shift the embedded social-emotional cycles that lead to recidivism, this book is both inspiration and guide for those seeking to create and sustain programs as well as to educate students about the types of programs universities bring to prisons.

Introduction to Criminal Justice

Bradley D. Edwards, Lawrence F. Travis III

Introduction to Criminal Justice, Tenth Edition, offers an accessible description of the criminal justice process. It provides an introduction to the mechanisms of the criminal justice system, with balanced coverage of the issues presented by each facet of the process, including a thorough review of practices and controversies in law enforcement, the criminal courts, and corrections. In this revision, Edwards updates the statistics and research findings throughout. New sections include the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, the recent shift to NIBRS crime reporting, and the attacks on the legitimacy of the criminal justice system.

Justice, Indigenous Peoples, and Canada

A History of Courage and Resilience

Edited by Kathryn M. Campbell, Stephanie Wellman

Justice, Indigenous Peoples, and Canada: A History of Courage and Resilience compiles the work of leading researchers to provide a broad overview of criminal justice issues that Indigenous people in Canada have faced historically and continue to face today. This unique collection of perspectives exposes the disconcerting agenda of historical and modern-day Canadian federal government policy and the continued denial of Indigenous rights to self-determination. It is essential reading for those interested in the struggles of the Indigenous peoples in Canada as well as anyone studying race, crime and justice.

The Death Penalty as State Crime

Who Can Kill?

Laura L. Finley

This book offers a new perspective on the death penalty in the US, examining capital punishment as state crime or state-produced harm. It addresses the death penalty, showing how the state not only authorizes a system and a practice that tortures human beings, but is also aware of its deep flaws and chooses not to address them. Building on the vast literature on state crime together with case examples, and interviews with activists seeking to abolish the death penalty, this book offers a new and innovative critique of state punishment in the US.

Understanding Victimology

An Active-Learning Approach

Shelly Clevenger, Jordana N. Navarro, Catherine D. Marcum, George E. Higgins

Understanding Victimology: An Active Learning Approach is the only textbook with extensive discussion of both online and offline victimization reinforced by group and individual learning activities. Our textbook offers instructors a variety of active learning exercises – in the book itself and in the authors’ ancillaries— that engage students in the material and shed light on the experiences of marginalized social groups. Suitable for undergraduate courses in victimology, this book also serves the needs of sociology and women’s studies courses and can be taught university-wide as part of diversity and inclusion initiatives.

The Politics of Crime, Punishment and Justice

Exploring the Lived Reality and Enduring Legacies of the 1980’s Radical Right

Stephen Farrall, Emily Gray

This book explores the impact of right-wing political ideology on crime, the criminal justice system, and attitudes towards punishment in Britain. Grounded in a rigorous analysis of repeated cross-sectional surveys such as the British Social Attitudes Survey and the British Crime Survey, as well as individual-level cohort data such as the National Child Development Study 1958 and the British Cohort Study 1970, it examines changes in long-term crime rates, criminal justice policies and their integration with social and economic policies in Britain over three decades. It is essential reading for criminologists, political philosophers, and social theorists alike.

Policing Welfare Fraud

The Government of Welfare Fraud and Non-Compliance

Scarlet Wilcock

Series: Routledge Studies in Crime and Justice in Asia and the Global South

Policing Welfare Fraud charts and interrogates the suite of measures ostensibly designed to combat welfare fraud and non-compliance. Drawing on original documentary and interview data, including interviews with fraud investigators, this book unpacks the logics that underpin these anti-fraud initiatives with a focus on how these initiatives are imbued with logics and practices more readily associated with the criminal justice system. An accessible and compelling read, this book will appeal to students and scholars of criminology, sociology, politics and those interested in the policing of welfare recipients.

Egan K. Green, Ronald G. Lynch, Scott R. Lynch

The Police Manager provides a roadmap for the challenges that police administrators face in their day-to-day duties. This includes considerations for dealing with subordinate officers and for interacting with the public. Covering a wide range of topics from fiscal management to use-of-force policies, this text prepares readers for the tasks that police managers confront. Readers benefit by gaining a understanding of the complexities involved in an occupation that creates demands from the public, from public officials, and from other police officers. This edition covers specific challenges for small and underexamined police agencies such as university police departments.

Policing Women

Histories in the Western World, 1800 to 1950

Edited by Jo Turner, Helen Johnston, Marion Pluskota

Series: Routledge SOLON Explorations in Crime and Criminal Justice Histories

Policing Women examines for the first time the changing historical landscape of women’s experiences of their contact with the official state police between 1800 to 1950, in the Western world. Drawing on and going beyond existing knowledge about policing practices, the volume discusses how women encountered the official police, how they experienced that contact, and the outcomes of that contact in the modern Western world.

Replicating & Reproducing Policing Research

Edited by Khadija Monk, Jacek Koziarski

This book addresses the need for policing scholarship to strengthen its empirical cumulative knowledge base by replicating and reproducing earlier studies. The chapters in this volume advance policing research by replicating and reproducing earlier studies, investigating the generalizability of research findings, and making data and research methods available to other researchers to encourage scientific exploration of previous research findings. The book offers insights into why replicating and reproducing policing scholarship is critical. It was originally published as a special issue of Police Practice and Research.

Comparing Pathways of Desistance
An International Perspective

Ruwani Fernando
Series: International Series on Desistance and Rehabilitation
This book presents a comparative study of desistance from crime by analysing and comparing the narratives of English and French desisters. In doing so, it uncovers how national and structural differences may lead to varying individual pathways out of crime.

Researching Prisons

Jennifer Anne Rainbow
Researching Prisons provides an overview of the processes, practices and challenges involved in undertaking prison research. The chapters look at the different practical, theoretical and emotional considerations required at the various stages of the research process, drawing on the reflections and challenges experienced by over 40 other prison researchers both in England and Wales, and across the world.

Prison Recipes and Prison Cookbooks

A.E. Stearns
Series: Routledge Frontiers of Criminal Justice
Prison Recipes and Prison Cookbooks provides an innovative exploration of U.S.-based prison cookbooks using a narrative criminological approach. The book relies on the voices of prison cookbook authors to argue that cookbook narratives are a form of communication with the free world. Further, the book undertakes thematic analyses of prison cookery and narratives to illuminate the intersections of incarceration with abolition, gender, literacy, and dehumanisation.

The Lived Experiences of Claiming Wrongful Conviction in Prison

Emma Burtt
Series: Routledge Frontiers of Criminal Justice
The Lived Experiences of Claiming Wrongful Conviction in Prison focuses on the lived experience of maintaining innocence in the prison environment and highlights the struggles and pain that such a claim can cause. Using the novel means of conducting an interview via a series of letters, the book details the experiences of sixty-four prisoners maintaining innocence in England and Wales and examines in-depth what is unique to this population.

Prisoners’ Vote
A Multidisciplinary and Comparative Perspective

Edited by Martine Herzog-Evans, Jérôme Thomas
Series: Directions and Developments in Criminal Justice and Law
Through different legal and criminological angles and perspectives, this book addresses the controversial question of whether prisoners should have the right to vote, as well as the optimal modalities for such a vote. By adopting a comparative approach to explore the legal systems of very different jurisdictions, such as the former Eastern Bloc, England, Ireland, the USA and France, the book reveals a recent trend in opening up the right to vote.

Transformation During Incarceration
Breaking the System

Deanna Evans
Series: Innovations in Corrections
Transformation During Incarceration: Breaking the System moves beyond rehabilitative strategies in corrections to engage a more holistic understanding of the communal experiences behind prison walls. Using an indigenous research methodology analyzing memoirs of formerly incarcerated people, the book contextualizes and identifies the role of community and shared emotional connection among incarcerated people. This book is essential for scholars, practitioners, and students concerned with the transformative journey among the incarcerated population and for anyone engaged in higher education in prison or interested in constructive change of the prison system.
Domestic Violence and Abuse as a Shadow Pandemic
An International and Interdisciplinary View

Edited by Florence V. Seemungal
Series: Routledge Studies in Criminal Behaviour
Domestic Violence and Abuse as a Shadow Pandemic investigates, analyses and presents statistics to assess the claim by UN WOMEN that domestic violence constituted a “shadow” pandemic to the COVID-19 pandemic. The drivers of violence, mitigation strategies, and State and agency responses are discussed with data from more than 80 countries, covering North and South America, the Caribbean, Europe, the Middle East, Africa, Asia and Australasia.

Fatal Family Violence and the Dementias
Gray Mist Killings

Neil Websdale
Series: Routledge Studies in Criminal Behaviour
This book explores dementia-related aggression, violence, and homicide through a detailed analysis of “gray mist killings.” The term gray mist killing refers to intimate partner homicides (IPHs) committed by spouses/partners suffering from dementia, homicides of dementia sufferers committed by their caregiving spouses/partners or other family members, and IPHs attributable to the complications of caring for a co-resident family member suffering from dementia.

Sexual Offences Against Children in India
Understanding the Criminal Justice Responses

Sonali Swetapadma, Paromita Chattoraj
Series: Routledge Frontiers of Criminal Justice
Sexual Offences Against Children in India examines the evolution of the law pertaining to sexual violence against children, the judicial decisions since the POCSO Act till date with respect to aspects of POCSO Act and the best practices from other developed jurisdictions for handling cases and victims of child abuse. Despite being prevalent, violence against children is often hidden or under-reported, though its impact is widely acknowledged. In a country like India the vocabulary to communicate around sexuality and sexual abuse is almost non-existent.

Working with Violent Men
From Resistance to Change Talk in Probation Domestic Abuse Programmes

Will Hughes
Series: Routledge Studies in Criminal Behaviour

Working with Violent Men gives a detailed insight into working with men who have been violent towards intimate partners. As such this monograph aims to contribute to a gap in knowledge in understanding, within an important social and criminal justice topic. The book is underpinned by research based on participant observation at domestic abuse groups, allowing for direct observation of behaviours and interactions, including gestures and emotional responses, as well as semi-structured interviews with group facilitators and participants.

Violence Against Women in the US
Theory, Research and Policy

Maddy Coy

Analysing what is known about violence against women, this book centres on the contrast between the U.S.’s historic focus on a criminal legal framework and the human rights lens used globally by feminist activists. By offering an analysis of how violence against women has come to be named in activist, policy, and academic arenas, Violence Against Women in the US is an essential resource for students, scholars, and practitioners.

What Is to Be Done About Violence Against Women?
Gendered Violence(s) in the Twenty-first Century

Kate Fitz-Gibbon, Sandra Walklate

This book maps the problems and possibilities of the policies and practices designed to tackle violence against women in the domestic sphere over the last 40 years. This book asks the simple yet critical question: how can governments best ensure women’s safety in the twenty-first century? It is essential reading for all those engaged in feminist criminology, gender and crime, family and domestic violence, and violence against women.
