Legitimizing Authority

American Government and the Promise of Equality

Boris Vormann, Christian Lammert

Series: Routledge Research in American Politics and Governance

Legitimizing Authority places the American state apparatus back in the foreground to rethink the development of the country's government in the context of its unfulfilled promise of equality. The book argues that the tensions between calls for equality and the simultaneous tolerance of inequality, have accompanied the rise of modern mass society, and, with it, of liberal democracy. This interdisciplinary book is addressed to a broad audience across disciplines, including political science, political economy, political history, comparative politics, international politics, international relations, American Political Development (APD), and cultural studies.

Congress and the Politics of Sports

Homefield Advantage

Edited by Colton Campbell, David Dulio

Series: Routledge Research in American Politics and Governance

This book offers insights into some of the historic and contemporary challenges that sports have presented to Congress, along with highlighting the ways in which Congress has impacted the sports industry. With attention now being given to issues associated with sports, and an increasing number of lawmakers using sports to push policy agendas and create legislative opportunities, this book will be a vital resource for understanding the dynamic relationship between the two. Congress and the Politics of Sports will be of great interest to researchers and practitioners involved with US politics, Congress and congressional studies, public policy, sports studies and sport history.

National Images and United States-Canada Relations

Stephen Brooks

Series: InterAmerican Research: Contact, Communication, Conflict

This book explores the psychological-cultural dimension of the United States-Canada relationship by analyzing how each country has viewed the other. Drawing on a wide range of data, including primary sources, secondary literature, and survey research, the methodology is historical/analytical, seeking to explicate and understand how Americans and Canadians, and their elites, have viewed one another from the moment they were launched on separate trajectories, why they developed and held such ideas, and what consequences these images had for the bilateral relationship between the countries.

Is Voting for Young People?

Martin P. Wattenberg

Explores the reasons why young people are less likely to follow politics and vote in the United States and other established democracies, no matter who the candidates are, or what the issues may be. Illustrating the critical importance of engaging young voters, this book is an important read for students of democracy, political participation, elections, and voter behaviour.

Nineteenth Century America in the Society of States

Reluctant Power

Edited by Cornelia Navari, Yannis A. Stivachtis

Series: Routledge Studies in US Foreign Policy

This book examines how the United States adopted and contributed to the practices of international society – the habits and practices states use to regulate their relations—during the nineteenth century. This volume will serve as an invaluable text for undergraduate courses focusing on international relations theory and U.S. foreign policy. It will also appeal to established scholars in international relations, diplomacy, and international history, and historical sociology.

The Architects of Toxic Politics in America

Venom and Vitriol

Kenneth T. Walsh

The Architects of Toxic Politics in America: Venom and Vitriol explains the history of poison politics in America by profiling some of the key political “attack dogs” who have shaped the modern landscape. Discussing the Trump and Biden presidencies and administrations of the past, the book demonstrates the toxicity of the current political moment and the forces that have created it. Additionally, the book also focuses quite extensively on “non-presidential” architects of toxic politics: other politicians, campaign strategists, activists, and media figures.

9TH EDITION

Texas Politics

Governing the Lone Star State

Cal Jillson

The ninth edition of this book approaches Texas politics from historical, developmental, and analytical perspectives. The book has been updated to cover the 2020 and 2022 elections and key policy developments on abortion, gun violence, energy, and redistricting. For instructors and students of state and local politics, this text traces the history and modern interpretations of the Texas Constitution and political participation and structure in Texas.

The Crossroads Elections

European Perspectives on the 2022 Midterm Elections

Edited by Renata Duda, Maciej Turek

Series: Routledge Research in American Politics and Governance

This wide-ranging collection offers insightful contributions and critical reflections on the study of campaigns, elections, congress, and political behaviour. Using the conceptual framework of a “crossroads”, fifteen experts examine the political environment, issues, candidates, campaigns, and voters of the 2022 midterm election. Distinctive in its breadth of topics, the book covers the issues of 2022 through statistical and descriptive analysis. Complementing a wide variety of courses on American Government and Politics, The Crossroads Election will be of interest to researchers engaged in the study of electoral research, public opinion and voting behavior.

The Presidency and Domestic Policy

Comparing Leadership Styles, FDR to Biden

Michael A. Genovese, Todd L. Belt, William W. Lammers

This book systematically examines the first terms of every president from FDR to Joe Biden and assesses the leadership style and policy agenda of each. Success in bringing about policy change is shown to hinge on the leadership style and skill in managing a variety of institutional and public relationships. Presidents are evaluated based on the level of opportunity they faced. The third edition of this timely book adds chapters on Donald Trump and Joe Biden and focuses on the significant domestic policy challenges of their respective times.

The Presidency and Immigration Policy
Rhetoric and Reality
Matthew Eshbaugh-Soha, Eric Gonzalez Juenke, Andrea Silva

This analysis of presidential immigration rhetoric quantifies the frequency, tone, and efficacy of public mentions of immigrants and immigration policy by the modern presidents and also explores the intersection of the presidential role with that of the press, public opinion, and Congress. For students of immigration studies, presidential studies, and political communication, this book also poses the question of which is of the greatest significance to the immigration policy agenda: presidential leadership making immigration a top priority or existing legislative support for comprehensive immigration reform.

The Upcoming Insignificance of the American Presidency
Flouting the Framer's Forewarnings
Wilbur C. Rich

This new text analyzes the development of the presidency as the dominant political institution in the United States and raises questions about its future relevance. In this history of the U.S. executive branch from the framing of the Constitution to the Biden administration, author Wilbur C. Rich illuminates the transformation of the presidential role by a variety of extra-constitutional, non-legal forces, technology, and social changes.

Understanding and Countering Fascist Movements
From Void to Hope
Joan Braune

This book is based on the premise that understanding fascism is crucial for defeating it. Rejecting centrist paradigms that see fascism as "extremism" or "accelerationism," Braune argues that fascism must be addressed in its specificity and uniqueness as an ideology and movement. Thus, fascism can only be defeated by countervailing social movements that not only demand radical social change but offer alternative spaces of belonging, community care, and the search for meaning. This is a philosophical contribution to antifascist theory and practice that will be appreciated by academics, students, and activists concerned about fascism today.
China’s Evolving Policy Processes under the Comparative Lenses

Theories and Evidence

Edited by Wei Li

This book takes a broad approach to studying China’s policy processes. It aims to shed new light on the characteristics of China’s political systems and to adapt theoretical frameworks of policy processes developed in Western democracies to China. The title will appeal to scholars, students, and practitioners interested in policy processes in mainland China and Taiwan and in comparative theories about policy processes around the world.

China-US Rivalry and Regional Reordering in Latin America and the Caribbean

Edited by Javier Vadell, Li Xing

Series: New Regionalisms Series

This book provides a comprehensive, conceptual and analytical framework for understanding the reordering process in the Latin American and Caribbean (LAC) region, driven and shaped by China-US rivalry. It demonstrates the differences between China-US, China-LAC, and US-LAC relations and questions to what extent the LAC region can be considered a unified actor. Exploring broad perspectives such as global governance, international institutions, trade, security policy, climate change, multilateralism, and regional and global peace and stability, the contributors also consider China’s Belt and Road Initiative, the Community of Latin American and Caribbean States (CELAC).

Democracy & Elections

Elite Origins of Democracy and Development in the Muslim World

Michael T. Rock, Soli Özel

Series: Democratization and Autocratization Studies

Using an elite consensus/conflict analytical frame, this book examines why some majority Muslim countries perform much better at democracy and/or development than others, questioning received wisdoms that Islam, authoritarianism and underdevelopment go together. This book will be of key interest to scholars and students of political development/development studies, democratization, autocratization studies, democracy promotion and comparative politics.

Democracies in Peril?

Waves of Backsliding

Hans Keman

Series: Democratization and Autocratization Studies

This insightful text rigorously examines and accounts for contemporary developments – and crucially a reversal of ‘democracism’ - in democratic politics and related political processes comparing 38 democracies across the world. The focus is on contemporary developments and recent volatile levels of democracism. This text will be of key interest to students, scholars, journalists and interested readers of comparative politics, democratization, public administration, political economy, constitutional law, and the social sciences in general.

Democratization and Autocratization in Comparative Perspective

Concepts, Currents, Causes, Consequences, and Challenges

Jørgen Møller, Svend-Erik Skaaning

This book provides balanced, critical, and comprehensive coverage of the theories and realities of autocratization and democratization. It sketches developments in the conceptions of democracy, discusses how to distinguish between different forms of political rule, and maps the development of democracy and autocracy across space and time. The book reviews the major debates and findings about domestic and international causes and consequences of democratization and autocratization. It synthesizes theoretical models and empirical relationships based on an explicit comparative perspective, which focuses on similarities and differences across countries and historical periods.

Liberty, Governance and Resistance
Competing Discourses in John Locke’s Political Philosophy

John William Tate
Series: Routledge Studies in Social and Political Thought
John Locke is widely perceived as a foundational figure within the liberal tradition. This book investigates the competing purposes that informed Locke’s political philosophy, not all of which resulted in outcomes consistent with what we today understand as “liberal” ideals. Liberty, Governance and Resistance will be of interest to researchers studying Locke, liberalism, and the history of ideas.

Re-imagining Democracy
Legacy, Impact and Lessons of Spain’s 15-M Movement

Edited by Cristina Flesher Fominaya, Ramón A. Feenstra
This interdisciplinary book draws on leading scholarship on one of the most influential and consequential social movements of the past decades: Spain’s 15-M movement. The volume explores the legacy, impact and outcomes of the movement, and the lessons it offers for understanding mobilization in times of crisis. It also offers rich case studies to explore a range of areas of interest to social movement scholars. The chapters included in this book were originally published as peer-reviewed special issue of Social Movement Studies.

The Populism-Euroscepticism Nexus
A Discursive Comparative Analysis of Germany and Spain

Juan Roch
Series: Critical European Studies
This book explores the modes of European Union (EU) contestation which are mobilized by populist parties and seeks to unearth the relationship of such contestation with populist discourses. It looks specifically at how rightist and leftist parties articulate populist discourses with representations and problematizations of Europe and the EU. It argues that radical parties build their Euroscepticism on other hegemonic discourses and populism is only one possible discursive articulation to mobilize the contestation of the EU.

Why Neo-Militant Democracies Endure
The Inner Six in Comparative Perspective

Edited by Joanna Rak
Series: Democratization and Autocratization Studies
This book examines how contemporary militant democracies persist in the face of authoritarian abuses occurring during times of crisis. Focusing on founding members of the European Union, it explores how these democracies implemented anti-democratic measures without compromising their political rights and civil liberty ratings. It will be of key interest to scholars and students of European and Comparative Politics, Democratic Resilience and Backsliding, Legitimacy, Democracy and Dictatorship, Public Comparative Constitutional Law, Human Rights Law, Philosophy of Law.

Climate Change and Critical Agrarian Studies

Edited by Ian Scoones, Saturnino M. Borras Jr., Amita Baviskar, Marc Edelman, Nancy Lee Peluso, Wendy Wolford

Series: Critical Agrarian Studies

This book interrogates the narratives and strategies that frame climate change and examines the institutionalised responses in agrarian settings, highlighting what exclusions and inclusions result. The 26 chapters in this volume explore how the relationship between capitalism and climate change plays out in the rural world and, in particular, the way agrarian struggles connect with the huge challenge of climate change. Through a huge variety of case studies alongside more conceptual chapters, the book makes the often-missing connection between climate change and critical agrarian studies. The chapters in this book were originally published in The Journal of Peasant Studies.

Global Heating and the Australian Far Right

Imogen Richards, Gearóid Brinn, Callum Jones

Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right

Global Heating and the Australian Far Right examines the environmental politics of far-right actors and movements in Australia, exploring their broader political context and responses to climate change. Through a critical analysis of news and social media, it reveals how denialist and resignatory attitudes towards climate change operate alongside extreme right accelerationism, in a wider Australian political context characterised by reactionary fossil fuel politics and neoliberal New Right climate change agendas. This book will be of interest to researchers of climate change, the far right, neoliberal capitalism, extremism and Australian politics.

Metanarrative and the Environment

A Story of Morality, Agency, and Governance

Stephen James Purdey

Series: Routledge Research in Environmental Policy and Politics

To meet the challenge of global environmental degradation activists have tackled problems such as carbon emissions and climate change, the ruination of ecosystems and habitat, the precipitous loss of biodiversity, and many other consequences of irresponsible human behaviour. However, all efforts to manually correct the course of history have been dwarfed by the magnitude and forward momentum of modern industrial society. In Metanarrative and the Environment, Stephen James Purdey argues that material approaches to the environmental crisis cannot succeed without the power of a legitimating discourse – a new metanarrative – which fundamentally changes the landscape of human development.

Coalition Politics in Central Eastern Europe
Governing in Times of Crisis

Edited by Torbjörn Bergman, Gabriella Ikonoski, Johan Hellström
Series: Routledge Research in Comparative Politics
This insightful book brings the study of coalitions and coalition governance in Central and Eastern European democracies up to date, with an analytical focus framed by difficult economic and social periods, such as the end of the economic crisis and the Coronavirus pandemic. This book will be of key interest to scholars and students of Central European politics, East and Central European politics, and comparative politics.

Differentiation and Domination in Europe’s Poly-Crisis

Against the backdrop of a more differentiated European Union, this book discusses the relationship between differentiation and domination in the EU in relation to how it has been transformed through the financial and refugee crises, the COVID-19 pandemic, Russian invasion of Ukraine and in general a more volatile and less rule-bound global context. It will be of key interest to scholars and students of public sector crisis management, international organisations, and EU politics and studies.

Edited by Jozef Bátora, John Erik Fossum
Series: Routledge Studies on Democratising Europe

Decolonial Politics in European Peripheries
Redefining Progressiveness, Coloniality and Transition Efforts

Edited by Sanja S. Petkovska
Series: Southeast European Studies
Decolonial Politics in European Peripheries is a timely contribution to the project of theorizing “Europe” through decolonial perspectives on the Left, as the European and global crisis has prompted new reflections on what it means to sit still at the European “peripheries”. This book will intrigue students and scholars of critical social scholarship on global politics, postcolonialism, and critical approaches to European politics.

Edited by Alexander Radunz, Rafał Riedel
Series: Routledge Research in Comparative Politics
This book examines differentiated integration in Europe, providing incisive analyses of domestic politics determinants – political conflict, party responses, citizens’ preferences and other supply and demand side elements.

Associated Governance in Scandinavia
Organizing Societies by “Combining Together”

Edited by Anker Brink-Lund, Halodr Brykjevlo, Søren Christensen
Series: Nordic Studies in a Global Context
This edited volume explores different aspects of associative governance, providing detailed case studies of associations and associational governance in Nordic societies. It will be of key interest to scholars and students of Nordic and Scandinavian studies, history, sociology, political science, marketing, social policy, organization theory and public management.

(In)visible European Government
Critical Approaches to Transparency as an Ideal and a Practice

Edited by Maarten Hillebrandt, Päivi Leino-Sandberg, Ida Koivisto
Series: Routledge/UACES Contemporary European Studies
This book questions the theoretical premises and practical applications of transparency, showing both the promises and perils of transparency in a methodologically innovative way and in a cross-section of policy instruments. It scrutinizes transparency from three perspectives - methodologically, theoretically, and empirically - both in the specific context of the EU but also in the wider context of modern society in which transparency is embraced as an almost unquestionable virtue.
EU and US Foreign Economic Policy Responses to China
The End of Naivety
Joachim Schild, Dirk Schmidt
Series: Routledge/UACES Contemporary European Studies
This book examines EU and US bilateral trade and investment relations with China, their attempts to level the economic playing field and to narrow the ‘reciprocity gap’ in market openness. This book will be of key interest to scholars, students and practitioners in the fields of EU trade policymaking, US foreign/foreign economic policy, EU-China-US economic relations, European political economy, and more broadly to European studies, Asian studies, International Relations, International Political Economy, and transatlantic relations.

Fascists in Exile
Post-War Displaced Persons in Australia
Jayne Persian
Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right
Fascists in Exile tells the extraordinary story of the war criminals, collaborators and fascist ultranationalists who were resettled in Australia by the International Refugee Organisation between 1947 and 1952. It explores the far-right backgrounds and continuing political activism of these displaced persons in Australia, adding to our knowledge of the development of Australian anti-communism in the 1950s. The text will appeal to those with an interest in the far right, Australian migration and refugee issues.

2ND EDITION
European Union in the Global Context
Simon Sweeney
The European Union in a Global Context is a lively, focussed and engaging text, incorporating anecdotes and contemporary arguments, and presenting different perspectives on European integration and globalisation. It provides essential foundations in these areas, while using stimulating arguments to prompt discussion and provoke interest in the relationships between these processes. It critically analyses the challenges faced by the EU from the contemporary political and economic dynamics of globalisation (IPE), including trading relationships set through the WTO and bilateral relations with emerging markets, especially the BRIC economies.

The EU and China
Avoiding a New Cold War

Edited by Thomas Meyer, José Luís de Sales Marques
Series: Globalisation, Europe, and Multilateralism
This edited book is devoted to an analysis of how the multiple-modernities approach might help strengthen the strategic autonomy of the European Union and foster cooperative EU-China relations at a time when some observers believe that a new global cold war may be on the horizon. The book will be of interest to students of history, international relations, international political economy, European and Chinese studies, and military and security affairs. Furthermore, its timely subject should stimulate debate among a wider audience of journalists, policy professionals, and politically-engaged readers worldwide.

The Practical Role of The EU’s Values in Diplomacy with China
Complacency, Self-Censorship and Misunderstanding

Max Roger Taylor
Series: Routledge Studies in European Foreign Policy
Delivering a groundbreaking analysis of the EU’s diplomatic meetings (or dialogues) with China, this book reveals how the EU’s values rarely feature in exchanges, due to ingrained cultures of complacency and self-censorship amongst EU officials. This book will be of key interest to scholars and students of European (Union) foreign policy and diplomacy, EU-China relations, Chinese foreign policy, human rights diplomacy, sustainable development, trade policy and more broadly in European and Asian Studies, and International Relations.

Feminist Policymaking in Turbulent Times

Edited by Hannah Partis-Jennings, Clara Eroukhmanoff
Series: Routledge Studies in Gender and Global Politics

Feminist Policymaking in Turbulent Times offers a unique and timely reflection of the critical debates around the institutionalisation of feminist and gender-focused ideas and norms into policy. It will be of interest to all scholars, students and practitioners interested in the role of gender in policymaking and concerned with contestations around gender-focused projects.

The Politics of Silence, Voice and the In-Between Exploring Gender, Race and Insecurity from the Margins

Edited by Aliya Khalid, Georgina Holmes, Jane L. Parpart
Series: Gender in a Global/Local World

The Politics of Silence, Voice and the In-Between: Exploring Gender, Race and Insecurity from the Margins seeks to dismantle the deficit discourses generated through research about people as agency-less and, by extension, objects of study. This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of gender studies, international development, peace and conflict studies, politics and international relations, sociology, and media studies. It will be an important resource for courses incorporating gender, feminist, and postcolonial perspectives.

The Racialization of Sexism
Men, Women and Gender in the Populist Radical Right

Francesca Scrinzi
Series: Gender and Comparative Politics

Drawing on a two-year comparative and intersectional study of the Lega Nord in Italy and the Front national (now Rassemblement national) in France, and based on over 100 activists’ life histories, this book tackles how gender, at the interplay with class, ethnicity, age and religion shapes the parties’ strategies as well as their activists’ experiences; and how gender relations are transformed in unconventional ways within these parties. It will be of interest to those studying gender, as well as nationalism, racism, social movements, radical politics and party politics.
A Fortified Far Right?

Scrutinizing the Threat

Katalin Petho-Kiss, Rohan Gunaratna

Petho-Kiss and Gunaratna understand the nature of the threat posed by the far right because of their findings and propose effective provisions and mechanisms for detecting and countering it. The book undertakes a consistent procession and empirical examination of available information to arrive at the recognition, that in order to dissolve the complexity of the associated threat, we need to scrutinize the functioning of far right threat groups. This book is for scholars as well as practitioners in the counter terrorism (CT) and the prevention/countering violent extremism (PCVE) field.

A Theory of De Facto States

Classical Realism and Exceptional Polities

Lucas Knotter

Series: Routledge Studies in Nationalism and Ethnicity

A Theory of De Facto States offers a new perspective on the phenomenon of de facto states — political communities that manifest forms of statehood in international politics but lack international legal recognition — zooming in on two prominent examples, Somaliland and Kosovo. Showcasing how the statehood and sovereignty of de facto states is based in international political crises, this book concludes that these entities function as recurring disruptions of any supposed international political order. A Theory of De Facto States will therefore be of interest to researchers of secession, de facto statehood, and International Relations theory alike.

Christian Nationalism and Anticommunism in Twentieth-Century South Africa

Ruhan Fourie
Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right

This book investigates Afrikaner anticommunism in South Africa in the twentieth century, focusing on the Dutch Reformed Church (DRC). It examines how the DRC, the institution with the widest reach and deepest influence in the everyday lives of Afrikaners, played a significant role in perpetuating an anticommunist imagination amongst twentieth century Afrikaners. It will appeal to readers interested in anticommunism, Christian nationalism, right-wing networks, racism and apartheid culture and society.

Diasporas and Transportation of Homeland Conflicts
Inter-group Dynamics and Host Country Responses

Edited by Elise Féron, Bahar Baser
Series: Ethnopolitics

This book explores transformation and reinvention of conflict-generated diaspora groups’ politics in countries of residence. Chapters draw our attention to various interconnected temporalities explaining patterns of conflict transportation, such as the temps long of diasporic mobilisation, the here and now of what is happening in both host and home countries, and micro-temporalities and diasporas’ life trajectories. The volume calls for nuancing our approach to links between diasporas and conflicts, to avoid falling into essentialisation trap. It was originally published in Ethnopolitics.

Collective Movements and Emerging Political Spaces

Far-Right Political Parties in Australia
Disorganisation and Electoral Failure

Jordan McSwiney
Series: Routledge Studies in Extremism and Democracy

This book examines how Australian far-right parties organise and operate to better understand their limited electoral success. Focusing particularly on the 2019 Australian federal election, this book takes an organisational approach to better understand why Australian far-right parties struggle electorally. Through the novel lens of disorganised parties, the author argues that the failure to develop a functioning party organisation has resulted in Australian far-right parties being unable to effectively navigate their political environment. This book will be of interest to scholars and students of party politics, the far right, populism and Australian politics.

Political Economy as Theodicy

David L. Blaney

Series: RIPE Series in Global Political Economy

Political Economy as Theodicy: Progress, Suffering and Denial proposes that political economics operates within a theological symbolic order that dictates modern sociopolitical and economic life as a whole. Beginning with the Enlightenment thinkers and continuing through to the modern neoclassicists, the book traces the initial emergence of a natural theological basis for political economic thinking and concludes with a discussion of its application in modern IPE.

Migration Politics across the World

Edited by Katharina Natter, Hélène Thiollet

Series: ThirdWorlds

This book breaks new ground in scholarship on the politics of migration. It brings together in-depth case studies from Argentina, Tunisia, Japan, South Korea, the United States, Australia, the Philippines, China, and Saudi Arabia to showcase the complex interplay between migration politics and broader dynamics of regime change, state formation, and nation-state ideology. The volume offers an ideal vantage point for understanding the role of migration in state transformations and political changes around the world. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Third World Quarterly.

Post-Cold War Predictions

Hanna Samir Kassab

Series: Routledge Advances in International Relations and Global Politics

Post-Cold War Predictions examines how the international order evolved after the collapse of the Soviet Union by focusing on the ways we study and understand major powers’ security behavior within the evolving multipolar order. Beginning with an overview of Post-Cold War literature, Kassab summarizes and evaluates influential Post-Cold War texts to better understand scholarship’s need to predict. To understand the context by which political ideas were developed and followed as if they were political ideologies, Hanna Samir Kassab makes explicit the links historicism with historiography, forwarding a new methodology for studying political science.

Post-Popular Cultures and Digital Capitalism in Latin America

Essays by Néstor García Canclini and Pablo Alabarces

Pablo Alabarces, Néstor García Canclini
Series: Coping with Crisis - Latin American Perspectives
In this book, Pablo Alabarces and Néstor García Canclini evaluate the changes experienced the popular classes in Latin American democracies over the past two decades. The authors ask how the digitalization and economization of society are changing the reality of political participation and social inequality in Latin America, leading to new forms of economic and cultural marginalization. Post-Popular Cultures and Digital Capitalism in Latin America will be of interest to researchers and postgraduate students in political science, sociology, and cultural studies looking to freshen their views as well as develop an understanding of the Global South’s perspective on current global issues.

Power Dynamics in African Forests

The Politics of Global Sustainability

Edited by Symphorien Ongolo, Max Krott
Series: Routledge Studies in African Politics and International Relations
This book addresses historical perspectives and contemporary challenges of the politics of forestland governance and the related sustainability crisis in Africa.

Predisposed

The Left, The Right, and the Biology of Political Differences

John R. Hibbing, Kevin B. Smith, John R. Alford
This thoughtfully-updated revision of a classic test sheds new light on the potential sociological and biological differences that result in deep, seemingly unbridgeable political divisions. Social scientists and experts in biopolitics, John Hibbing, Kevin Smith, and John Alford present overwhelming evidence that political opinion is shaped by diverse psychological, physiological, and genetic traits. This new edition shifts the emphasis from differences between the political left and the right as they have traditionally been understood and explores the specific new brands of “liberalism” and “conservatism” in the modern era.

Residential Capitalism

Rent Extraction and Capitalist Production in Modern Spain (1833–2023)

Javier Moreno Zacarés
Series: RIPE Series in Global Political Economy
Over the last decade, Spain has become an emblem of the contradictory relationship between capitalism and housing. This book uses the Spanish case to bring to light, and theorise, the workings of residential capitalism. This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of political economy, as well as those engaged in crossover fields such as housing studies, urban geography, or financial geography.

Revolutionary Hope in a Time of Crisis

Political Disillusion, Democracy, and Utopia

Edited by Maša Mrovlje, Alex Zamalin
Series: Routledge Studies in Social and Political Thought
Revolutionary Hope in a Time of Crisis consists of new cutting-edge research essays written by an interdisciplinary mix of established and emerging scholars, bringing together a wide range of intellectual traditions and perspectives. The contributors confront the challenge of relearning hope by exploring the politically transformative potential of past disappointments and defeats. They encourage us to acknowledge, come to terms with and learn from the complexities, failures, and losses entailed in resistance, and to consider them as an occasion for rethinking the established patterns of revolutionary thought.

Strategic Culture(s) in Latin America

Explaining Theoretical Puzzles and Policy Continuities

Edited by Félix E. Martín, Nicolás Terradas, Diego Zambrano
Series: Routledge Advances in International Relations and Global Politics
Strategic Culture(s) in Latin America elucidates why many state-actors in the Global South exhibit a remarkable degree of policy continuity in their external behavior despite structural incentives for change. This book will be of interest to academics, graduate and undergraduate students, policy analysts, and practitioners of Latin American Studies, International Relations Theory and Security Studies.
The Balkan Route
Hope, Migration and Europeanisation in Liminal Spaces

Robert Rydzewski
Series: Southeast European Studies

This book is an ethnography of the people migrating through the Balkan route and the reaction of the local communities who witnessed their struggle to reach the European Union. Based on fieldwork conducted in North Macedonia and Serbia, it pays special attention to the “refugee crisis”, that gave birth to a new border regime based on a permanent suspension of laws, normalisation of violence, and the entrapment of migrants stranded in a liminal space at the gates to the EU. The book will appeal to an international audience of academics of migration studies, social and political science, and the wider public interested in migration and social and political changes in Southeast Europe.

The Dark Side of Politics
Essays on the Unpleasant Realities of Political Life

Benjamin Ginsberg

This series of scholarly essays explores the unpleasant realities of modern politics—and American politics in particular—by examining how self-interest, war, violence, deception, and institutional failure continue to characterize the political landscape. Author Benjamin Ginsberg argues that the political world in which we like to think we live—the world of civic engagement, representative government and principled political discourse—is fleeting and fragile, resting uneasily upon the foundation of a harsh and dark reality. Making a fundamental contribution to our understandings of politics, this book is an important read for students and scholars of American Politics and Government.

Towards Sustainable Futures
The Role of Evaluation

Edited by Per Øyvind Bastøe, Ida Kristine Lindkvist, Kim Forss
Series: Comparative Policy Evaluation

Towards Sustainable Futures serves as a guide to better understand what roles evaluation can play in sustainability. Rather than proposing a single definition of sustainability or methodological approach, this book gives us the tools to improve the quality and relevance of evaluation of sustainability. By combining a stellar line up of specialists, theoreticians, and practitioners in the field of development evaluation with expert, accessible and engaged analysis of key issues, Towards Sustainable Futures is a must-read source for re-tooling and re-focussing evaluation towards the green transition imperative. It should be essential reading for scholars and practitioners of evaluation.

United Nations Sanctions Regimes and Selective Security

Thomas Kruiper
Series: Global Institutions

This book investigates the selective nature of UN sanctions regimes with a specific focus on the post-Cold War era. Legally binding on all members UN sanctions are the most effective and legitimate non-violent multilateral tools to respond to international security threats, symbolically more powerful than unilateral or multilateral sanctions because they enjoy global support. However, since 1990, dozens of threats to international peace were met with sanctions, but many others were not. How can we explain this incoherent approach?

World War Aid
Interventionist Aid and War in Ukraine

Igor Pellicciari
Series: Innovations in International Affairs

World War Aid offers a novel perspective on the unprecedented aid in the Ukrainian conflict, destined to leave an international "echo" reaching far beyond the individual historical case and the aid sector alone. A highly original take on a key event of the 21st century, World War Aid is an invaluable text for political scientists, analysts and historians of international relations, as well as diplomats and practitioners of foreign policy and foreign aid.

Democracy and Event
The Promise and Perils of Catastrophe

Elaine Stavro
Catastrophes unsettle our safe places within the world. As such, they provide an interesting site to analyze the intersection of our affective and political lives. Inspired by the urgent need to bring theory back to politics and politics back to theory, Elaine Stavro demonstrates how theory might inform our attitudes to contemporary events while recognizing that political action and events cannot be captured in their complexity by theory. Her skilful engagement with various theoretical approaches, read through the lens of catastrophic events, will speak to a wide-ranging scholarly readership in numerous academic fields.

Democratic Peace
A Historical and Cultural Practice

Jorg Kustermans
This book advances the theory that ‘democratic peace’ does not exclusively refer to an absence of war among democracies but should also be thought of as a particular way of ‘doing, thinking and feeling’ peace. Democratic peace is not only then a statistical finding or a rhetorical commonplace invoked to justify foreign policy decisions. Rather, the notion also refers to a historically and culturally situated practice. The primary audience are researchers in international relations, specifically democratic peace theorists, peace researchers, cultural sociologists, and international practice theorists.

Grand Narratives in Critical International Theory

André Saramago
Critical international theory has the task of providing orientation to human beings in better understanding their conditions of existence, how those conditions came to assume their contemporary characteristics, and what immanent potential they might hold for emancipatory transformation. The argument in this book is that this task of orientation is indissociable from a reliance on grand narratives that capture the main features of the long-term process of human development.

Hegemony and the Politics of Labour
Towards a Discourse Theory of Value in Contemporary Capitalism

Simon Tunderman
Series: Routledge Innovations in Political Theory
Hegemony and the Politics of Labour takes up a question that goes to the heart of the debate about politics, capitalism, and discourse: how can labour relations and value production be understood as discursive processes? Hegemony and the Politics of Labour is an original and important contribution to the fields of discourse theory and Marxist critique of political economy.

Non-Democratic Federalism and Decentralization in Post-Soviet States

Irina Busygina, Mikhail Filippov
Series: Post-Soviet Politics
This book challenges the common perception of authoritarian regimes as incompatible with federalism and decentralization. It examines how the leaders of Russia, Ukraine and Kazakhstan have managed to exploit federalism and decentralization as useful instruments to help them preserve control, avoid political instability and to shift blame to the regional authorities in times of crises and policy failures. The authors explain how post-Soviet authoritarian regimes balance the advantages and risks and emphasize the contradictory role of external influences and threats to the institutional design of federalism and decentralization.

Nostalgia and Political Theory

Lawrence Quill
In Nostalgia and Political Theory, Lawrence Quill advocates the central importance of nostalgia as a theoretical response to the ‘historic’ past and a vertiginous present. He does so by offering detailed analyses of diverse theoretical approaches, from the ancient world to the modern day, in order to reassess the relation between nostalgia and politics. Quill proposes nostalgia as an organizing concept, silently (and not so silently) influencing theorists as they construct critiques of the present or visions of the political future.

Political Species

The Evolution and Diversity of Private Organizations in Politics

Karsten Ronit

Series: Routledge Advances in International Relations and Global Politics

In Political Species, Karsten Ronit expertly argues that evolutionary biology can provide important sources of inspiration for analyzing the proliferation of private actors/organizations in domestic and global politics. Focusing on the evolution of a diversity of such private actors/organizations in politics, Ronit emphasizes that individuals are affected by and contribute to societal, cultural, and political evolution through a range of formal organizations and that societies, cultures, and politics influence and build upon values and norms transmitted by individuals via these formal organizations.

Populist Discourse

Recasting Populism Research

Yannis Stavrakakis

Populist Discourse: Recasting Populism Research offers a refreshingly original discourse theory perspective on populist phenomena. Reading this book will help you learn the historical genealogy of significant populist phenomena from the end of the 19th century onwards and the main conceptual/theoretical accounts established to analyze them. Specifics on how mainstream conceptualizations of populism both in academia and public discourse are discussed in order to map new promising avenues for research beyond.

Revolutionary Care

Commitment and Ethos

Maurice Hamington

Written by one of the world’s most respected care scholars, Revolutionary Care provides original theoretical insights and novel applications to offer a comprehensive approach to care as personal, political, and revolutionary. Part One offers theoretical chapters that reinforce the primacy of care as a moral ideal across ideological and cultural differences. Part Two employs seven case studies on toxic masculinity, socialism and care economy, humanism and posthumanism, environmentalism, pacifism, anti-racism, and veganism to demonstrate the radical and revolutionary nature of care.

Targeting in International Law

Counterinsurgency and the Legal Materiality of the Principle of Distinction

Amin Parsa

Series: Interventions

This book is about how distinctions are drawn between civilians and combatants in modern warfare and how the legal principle of distinction depends on the technical means through which combatants make themselves visibly distinguishable from civilians. With its attention to the co-productive relationship between law, technologies of visualisation and legitimation of violence, this book will be relevant to a large community of researchers in international law, international relations, critical military studies, contemporary counterinsurgency operations and the sociology of law.

The Politics of Antagonism

Populist Security Narratives and the Remaking of Political Identity

Georg Lößlmann

Series: Interventions

This book demonstrates how populist security narratives served as the driving force behind the mobilization of Republican voters and the legitimation of an ‘America First’ policy agenda under the Trump presidency. Going beyond existing research on both populism and security narratives, the author links insights from political psychology on collective narcissism, blame attribution and emotionalization with research in political communication on narrative and framing to explore the political and societal impact of a populist security imaginary.

Withdrawal from Immanuel Kant and International Relations
The Global Unlimited

Mark F. N. Franke
Series: Interventions

This book shows how the flawed orientation forming Immanuel Kant’s philosophical project is the same from which the discipline of International Relations (IR) becomes possible and appears necessary. An essential text for advanced undergraduate and graduate studies, this book will also be of strong interest to those studying the thinking and writings of Kant, neo- and post-Kantian scholarship, and IR theory.
Anti-Fascism and Ethnic Minorities
History and Memory in Central and Eastern Europe

Edited by Anders Ahlbäck, Kasper Braskén
Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right

Anti-Fascism and Ethnic Minorities explores how, and to what extent, fascist ultranationalism elicited an anti-fascist response among ethnic minority communities in Eastern and Central Europe. The book offers scholars and students valuable historical and comparative perspectives on minority studies, Jewish studies, borderland studies, and memory studies. It will appeal to those with an interest in the history of race and racism, fascism and anti-fascism, and Central and Eastern Europe.

Civil Democracy Protection
Success Conditions of Non-Governmental Organisations in Comparison

Edited by Uwe Backes, Thomas Lindenberger
Series: Routledge Studies in Extremism and Democracy

Civil Democracy Protection is an overview of attempts by organisations to oppose groups that are perceived to threaten democracy. The central question it explores is: What significance do civil actors have for the establishment and consolidation of democratic constitutional states, especially in relation to the protection of democracy by state institutions. This book will be of interest to scholars of democracy protection, civil society, consolidation of democracy and anti-extremism.

John Horner and the Communist Party
Uncomfortable Encounters With Truth

Rosalind Eyben
Series: Routledge Studies in Radical History and Politics

John Horner and the Communist Party is a biography of a leading trade unionist and activist who became disillusioned with the Communist Party. This book is for anyone concerned with the problem of political allegiance, personal morality and associated states of denial that were to haunt Horner in later life. It will also be of interest to scholars and students researching communism and the Communist Party.

Metopolitics, Algorithms and Violence
New Right Activism and Terrorism in the Attention Economy

Ico Maly
Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right

Metopolitics, Algorithms and Violence argues that we need a more fine-grained approach to understand contemporary far-right violence – an approach that takes language and cultural production in a digital economy seriously. This work will be an engaging and necessary read for researchers interested in social media, digital culture, far-right politics, extremism and terrorism.

Organisation of Ukrainian Nationalists on Emigration
Its Formation and Transnational Connections in 1929–1934

Magdalena Gibiec
Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right

This book describes the formation, transnational activities, and inner workings of the Organization of Ukrainian Nationalists (OUN) in exile. Made possible thanks to an in-depth examination of previously unutilised correspondence, this title examines the organization during the first five years of its existence (1929–1934). The international activity of the OUN is examined through cooperation with individual countries, including Lithuania, Czechoslovakia, and Germany, but also with lobbying efforts in Great Britain, France, Italy, and North America. This text will be of interest to scholars of Ukrainian history, nationalism, comparative fascism, and transnationalism.

Social Media Politics
Digital Discord in the 2020 Presidential Election

Edited by Dan Schill, John Allen Hendricks

Social media and social networking services are integrated into the American political process and have profoundly influenced political communication and participation. Social media has transformed the political landscape by revolutionizing information dissemination, citizen engagement, and public opinion formation and change. This book is a comprehensive examination of the role of digital and social media in the 2020 U.S. presidential election, and how social media revealed political disharmony division among Americans.

Designing Public Policies

Principles and Instruments

Michael Howlett, Michael Howlett
Series: Routledge Textbooks in Policy Studies
The third edition of this highly regarded book provides a concise and accessible introduction to the principles and elements of policy design in contemporary governance. It examines in detail the range of substantive and procedural policy instruments that together comprise the toolbox from which governments choose tools to resolve policy problems and the principles and practices that lead to their use. This book is essential reading for all students of public policy, administration and management.

Evaluation in the Post-Truth World

Edited by Mita Marra, Karol Olejniczak, Arne Paulson
Series: Comparative Policy Evaluation
Evaluation in the Post-Truth World explores the relationship between the nature of evaluative knowledge, the increasing demand in decision-making for evaluation and other forms of research evidence, and the post-truth phenomena of anti-science sentiments combined with illiberal tendencies of the present day. Rather than offer a checklist on how to deal with post-truth, the experts found herein wish to raise awareness and reflection throughout policy circles on the factors that influence our assessment and policy-related work in such a challenging environment.

Public Administration Theory
Evolution and Application

Edited by Staci M. Zavattaro

What is theory? What do theorists do? Doctoral students and academics often engage with theory, but there is sometimes misunderstanding about what theory is, does, and explains. This book explores these questions, giving students and academics alike in public administration and management an idea of the breadth of depth of theory use, development, and application. The aim of the volume is to demystify the word ‘theory’. The chapters in this book were originally published in Administrative Theory & Praxis.

Managing Gender Inequity in Academia
A Guide for Faculty and Administrators in Public Affairs Programs

Gina Scutelnicu Todoran
Series: Routledge Public Affairs Education

Managing Gender Inequity in Academia is the first book to provide an evidence-based guide for university administrators and faculty interested in building all-important gender equity in public affairs and related programs. It is a guide for building gender equity in public affairs programs for faculty, higher education administrators, and graduate students in public affairs and related disciplines.

Name, Image, and Likeness Policies
Institutional Impact and States Responses

Darrell Lovell, Daniel Mallinson
Series: Routledge Research in Public Administration and Public Policy

This book examines the path that name, image, and likeness (NIL) has taken in the first years of the policy, how the expansion has led to differing approaches across state and universities, and how administrators in selected states are dealing with the rulemaking power they have.

Public Procurement for Innovation
Research and Development at the US Federal Level

Dolores Kuchina-Musina, Benjamin McMartin
Series: Routledge Research in Public Administration and Public Policy

Dolores Kuchina-Musina and Benjamin D. McMartin present a comprehensive analysis of the alternative contract vehicles used to promote innovation in the United States (U.S.) beginning with the innovation policy environment in the U.S, addressing current trends in the workforce, decreased investment in R&D and how technology is increasing at a rapid speed, Alternative Contracting Pathways provides its audience with an understanding of models, methods, and techniques the U.S. uses to promote the development of innovative technologies and products. Clearly written and impeccably researched, the book fills a huge void in the literature on public procurement.

Revenue Sources of Local Governments
Persisting Challenges and Emerging Opportunities

J. Edwin Benton

Author J. Edwin Benton presents a comprehensive overview of the revenue structure for local governments, in general, and for counties, municipalities, townships, special districts, and school districts, in particular. The bulk of the book meticulously examines the historical patterns and trends in revenue usage by local governments, and provides explanations for variations among different units of government, states, and regions of the country. It will be of enormous interest to public budgeting practitioners, students, and scholars.

Social Equity in a Post-Roe America
Gender, Race, and the Rule of Law

Lorenda A. Naylor, Heather Wyatt-Nichol
Series: Public Administration and Public Policy

Employing a public administration framework, Social Equity in a Post-Roe America documents the scope and breadth of inequality in the United States, linking social equity to sex, race, and the rule of law. It examines U.S. Supreme Court decisions and federal statutes across four public policy domains - political representation, which includes citizenship and voting rights, contraception, abortion, and employment. The book offers policy recommendations to increase equitable access and equal opportunity for women and people of color. It is required reading for all students of public administration, public policy, and political science, as well as for engaged citizens.
Street-Level Public Servants
Case Studies for a New Generation of Public Administration
Edited by Sara R. Rinfret
Series: Social Justice for Public Service
This cutting-edge new casebook challenges the dominant White-centric narrative of public administration, offering a fresh array of perspectives, with the lofty aim of ending the marginalization of communities in public policy implementation. Chapters are rooted in qualitative approaches and center the narratives of marginalized communities, including women, People of Color, and LGBTQIA+ public servants. Street-Level Public Servants offers a much-needed casebook for public administration and public policy courses in the twenty-first century.

Teaching Social Equity in Public Administration
A Cross-Curricular Guide for Faculty and Programs
Edited by Sean A. McCandless, Susan T. Gooden
Series: Routledge Public Affairs Education
This exciting new book from social equity authorities Sean McCandless and Susan T. Gooden demonstrates how public administration faculty can teach social equity across the curriculum, in practical terms. Each chapter discusses teaching social equity in a particular class through distinct pedagogical practices that advance student learning. The book serves as an important resource to faculty who teach social equity courses, as well as the students who take them. Most importantly, it is a resource to academics and practitioners alike who share a commitment to fairness and equity in the implementation of services to the public.

The Curious Public Administrator
William Hatcher
This book is rooted in the notion that public administrators must practice insatiable curiosity to be effective, fair, and democratic. By seeking to uncover how the world works, and therefore practicing curiosity, public administrators may be more likely to move toward evidence-based decisions, improving the efficacy and efficiency of public service. This book acts as a roadmap for developing a new doctrine of curiosity in public administration theory and practice, and it will be of enormous interest to students enrolled in public affairs courses as well as practicing public administrators and nonprofit managers.

Anti-Gender Mobilizations, Religion and Politics
An Italian Case Study
Massimo Prearo
Series: Routledge Studies in Religion and Politics
This book presents an innovative exploration of the rise of political forces that have coalesced around the anti-gender movement, shaping strategies that advocate novel intersections of religion, politicization of gender and sexuality, and radical and populist rejuvenation of conservative ideologies. It holds significant relevance for scholars and students engaged in gender studies, religious studies, social movements, populism, political science, political sociology, political history, and Italian studies.

Geopolitics of Global Catholicism
Politics of Religion in Space and Time
Petr Kratochvíl
Series: Routledge Studies in Religion and Politics
Geopolitics of Global Catholicism uncovers the key trends in today’s Catholicism, providing an incisive analysis of its deep entanglement with national, regional, as well as global politics. The book offers an exciting exploration of five versions of local Catholicism(s), and sheds light on the various theo-political constellations that differ widely across these national contexts but that also have global geopolitical consequences. The book is built around a novel theoretical argument showing that Catholic geopolitics contains not only a spatial dimension (as classic geopolitical studies would have it), but also a temporal one.

Security, Religion, and the Rule of Law
International Perspectives
Edited by Tania Pagotto, Joshua M. Roose, G. P. Marcar
Series: Routledge Studies in Religion and Politics
